Late Nineteenth-Century American Development Jeffrey G. Williamson, 1974 An economist's attempt to interpret a critical period of US history from Civil War to World War I Late Nineteenth-Century American Development Jeffrey G. Williamson, 2008-10-30 An economist's attempt to interpret a critical period of US history from Civil War to World War I The German Economy During the Nineteenth Century Toni Pierenkemper, Richard H. Tilly, 2004 In the 19th Century economic growth was accompanied by large scale structural change known as industrialization which fundamentally affected western societies Even though industrialization is on the wane in some advanced economies and we are experiencing substantial structural changes again the causes and consequences of these changes are inextricably linked with earlier industrialization This means that understanding 19th Century industrialization helps us understand problems of contemporary economic growth There is no recent study on economic developments in 19th Century Germany So this concise volume written specifically with students of German and economic history in mind will prove to be most valuable not least because of its wealth of statistical data

Pollard, 2013-09-27 This title considers the main similarities and differences in the industrialization processes of the major economies Nutrition and Economic Development in the Eighteenth-Century Habsburg Monarchy John Komlos, 2014-07-14 John Komlos examines the industrial expansion of Austria from a fresh viewpoint and develops a new model for the industrial revolution By integrating recent advances in the study of human biology and nutrition as they relate to physical stature population growth and levels of economic development he reveals an intense Malthusian crisis in the Habsburg lands during the second half of the eighteenth century At that time food shortages brought about by the accelerated population growth of the 1730s forced the government to adopt a reform program that opened the way for the beginning of the industrial revolution in Austria and in the Czech Crownlands Comparing this Austrian model of economic growth to the industrial revolution in Britain Komlos argues that the model is general enough to explain demographic and economic growth elsewhere in Europe despite obvious regional differences The main feature of the model is the interplay between a persistent even if small tendency to accumulate capital and a population with an underlying tendency to grow in numbers while remaining subject to Malthusian checks particularly a limited availability of food According to Komlos modern economic growth in Europe began when the food constraint was finally lifted Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Typology of Industrialization Processes in the Nineteenth Century A. Joseph Pollard, 2020-02-13 The industrial revolution in Great Britain was the first example of the transition to a modern industrial economy Certain features of this transition were later copied and modified by other countries undergoing the same process This book considers the main similarities and differences in the process of industrialization grouping the main countries
