Economics Of Contracts Theories And Applications:

The Economics of Contracts Eric Brousseau, Jean-Michel Glachant, 2002-10-17 A contract is an agreement under which two parties make reciprocal commitments in terms of their behavior to coordinate. As this concept has become essential to economics in the last 30 years, three main theoretical frameworks have emerged: incentive theory, incomplete contract theory, and transaction costs theory. These frameworks have enabled scholars to renew both the microeconomics of coordination with implications for industrial organization, labor economics, law, and economics organization design, and the macroeconomics of market decentralized economies and of the institutional framework. These developments have resulted in new analyses of a firm's strategy and State intervention, regulation of public utilities, anti-trust, public procurement, institutional design, liberalization policies, etc. Based on contributions by the leading scholars in the field, this 2002 book provides an overview of developments in these analytical currents, presents their various aspects, and proposes expanding horizons for theoreticians and practitioners.

The Economics of Contracts Eric Brousseau, Jean-Michel Glachant, 2002 A comprehensive and up-to-date synthesis of the economic analysis of contracts written by leading international scholars. The book offers a unique combination of theoretical and applied economics along with insights from law and management sciences, appealing to scholars, graduate students, and practitioners in economics, management, and law.

Economic Analysis of the DCFR Filomena Chirico, Pierre Larouche, 2010-03-12 The Economic Impact Group (EIG) was created to support the work on the DCFR with insights from law and economics. It brings together a number of leading European law and economics scholars. The Group looked at the main elements of the DCFR with two questions in mind: from an economic perspective, is it sensible to harmonize private law across Europe for this specific element, and is the solution chosen in the DCFR optimal? This book presents the outcome of the work of the EIG. It deals with key issues such as the function of contract law, contract formation, good faith, non-discrimination, specific performance versus damages, standard contractual terms, and consumer protection in contract law. The EIG complements the work of the drafters of the DCFR with insightful and critical assessments based on the well-established law and economics literature.

An Institutional Economics Approach to Megaproject Construction Contracts Juan Alberti, 2019-07-19 This paper shows that there is an opportunity to use an institutional economics approach to the analysis of the challenges around megaproject construction contract development It shows firstly that this approach is useful to analyze the reasonability of using particular contractual functions and clauses to deal with megaproject complexity Specifically although it is here recognized that complexity justifies the use of coordination and adaptation clauses it is also alleged that safeguarding clauses may or may not be useful as complexity rises because this depends on the relationship between maladaptation costs and transaction costs both related to the institutional environment Secondly this paper also alleges that new institutional economics is a helpful framework to analyze the prioritization of the underlying factors that determine the criteria used to assess and select contracting methods This document illustrates that the decision of the procuring method needs to be fundamentally addressed by analyzing the sponsors characteristics and objectives This is aligned with the fact that the decision regarding which contracting method to apply should consider the potential minimization of transaction costs by adjusting governance to the nature of the transaction

A Socio-Legal Theory of Money for the Digital Commercial Society Israel Cedillo Lazcano, 2024-02-22 This book poses the question do we need a new body of regulations and the constitution of new regulatory agents to face the evolution of money in the Fourth Industrial Revolution After the Global Financial Crisis and the subsequent introduction of Distributed Ledger Technologies in monetary matters multiple opinions claim that we are in the middle of a financial revolution that will eliminate the need for central banks and other financial institutions to form bonds of trust on our behalf In contrast to these arguments this book argues that we are not witnessing a revolutionary expression but an evolutionary one that we can trace back to the very origin of money Accordingly the book provides academics regulators and policy makers with a multidisciplinary analysis that includes elements such as the relevance of intellectual property rights which are disregarded in the legal analysis of money Furthermore the book proposes the idea that traditional analyses on the exercise of the lex monetae ignore the role of inside monies and technological infrastructures developed and supported by the private sector as exemplified in the evolution of the cryptoassets market and in cases such as Banco de Portugal v Waterlow Sons The book puts forward a proposal for the design and regulation of new payment systems and invites the reader to look beyond the dissemination of individual Distributed Ledger Technologies such as Bitcoin
