The Economy of Icons Ernest Sternberg,1999-09-30 Though many still think that we live in an information economy Ernest Sternberg asserts that the driving force in 21st century capitalism is not information but image Through studies of food processing real estate development tourism movies and labor performances he examines how businesses endow products with evocative meaning It has become common wisdom that we live in a postindustrial information society in which data and calculation underlie wealth But now that information is as routinely produced as industrial or agricultural goods businesses are discovering that they best achieve competitive advantage by producing what consumers most dearly seek personal meaning The 21st century economy produces just that not merely information but evocative images not just commodities but meaning laden icons As Sternberg shows foods now appeal through their sensuality and nostalgia houses and stores draw customers through their exoticism people sell their labor through the deliberate performance of the self for the market and tourist destinations offer up carefully crafted thematic experiences Whereas farms factories and information processors once stood at the core of the economy now movie studios do producing the product valued above all meaningful content from which downstream firms acquire the themes that animate desire Now that meaning pervades production Sternberg argues modes of inquiry once reserved for the humanities make sense in the study of the economy Drawing on art history and aesthetics he introduces iconography as a mode of cultural analysis adapted to the study of commercial production Through comparative studies of diverse economic sectors ranging from food processing to tourism Sternberg carries out an iconographic analysis of the new economy This is a provocative study for scholars students and professionals dealing with marketing and consumer research culture and media studies socio economics and economic geography

The Business of Ethnography Brian Moeran,2021-01-07 Can an anthropologist help us understand the world of business Armed with this question veteran anthropologist Brian Moeran embarks on an in depth study of cultural production and creative industries in Japan At once the blundering ethnographer and shrewd observer Moeran is able to shed light not only on social behavior and human relations in general but more specifically on the importance of strategic exchange to all business practices Moeran s fieldwork rooted in participant observation of business life in communities and corporations leads him to an original theory of how business operates Culture is not all powerful Moeran shows Instead social structures strongly influence behavior At the heart of Moeran s analysis is a firm belief in fieldwork and ethnography terms much bandied about in business management and cultural studies but rarely undertaken in depth The Business of Ethnography not only provides a useful methodology for people studying or wishing to understand business but also acts as a clarion call for anthropologists to rethink their discipline beyond traditional fieldwork sites

Women Redefining the Experience of Food Insecurity Janet Page-Reeves, 2014-07-03 Women Redefining the Experience of Food Insecurity Life Off the Edge of the Table is about understanding the relationship between food insecurity and women's agency. The contributors explore both the structural constraints that limit what and how much people eat and the myriad ways that women creatively and strategically re-structure their own fields of action in relation to food, demonstrating that the nature of food insecurity is multi-dimensional. The chapters portray how women develop strategies to make it possible to have food in the cupboard and on the table to be able to feed their families. Exploring these themes, this book offers a lens for thinking about the food system that incorporates women as agentive actors and links women's everyday food-related activities with ideas about food justice, food sovereignty, and food citizenship. Taken together, the chapters provide a unique perspective on how we can think broadly about the issue of food insecurity in relation to gender, culture, inequality, poverty, and health disparity. By problematizing the mundane world of how women procure and prepare food in a context of scarcity, this book reveals dynamics, relationships, and experiences that would otherwise go unremarked. Normally under the radar, these processes are embedded in power relations that demand analysis and demonstrate strategic individual action that requires recognition. All of the chapters provide a counter to caricatured notions that the choices women make are irresponsible or ignorant, or that the lives of women from low-income, low-wealth communities are predicated on impotence and weakness. Yet the authors do not romanticize women as uniformly resilient or consistently heroic. Instead, they explore the contradictions inherent in the ways that marginalized, seemingly powerless women ignore, resist, embrace, and challenge hegemonic patriarchal systems through their relationship with food.
