For Women, Monologues They Haven't Heard Susan Pomerance, 1993

From back cover Because a monologue comes from a great play it doesn t necessarily follow that it s a great monologue for you The writing may be fine and literary but from an actor s standpoint there are other considerations A great monologue for you is one which showcases you lends itself best to your interpretation makes auditors instructors and casting directors sit up and say Wow More often than not monologues lifted from plays are because they re lifted from plays totally out of contextl

They don't make a heck of a lot of sense unless delivered in relation to the total piece. Or unless you devote a great portion of your valuable allotted time to exposition. A monologue pulled from a play is an abstract thing and usually therefore has no point of reference, no point of view, no beginning, middle and end, and is of an unspecified duration. Dramatic monologues on the other hand are of ideal durations, embrace contemporary subjects, have definite points of view, are written in today's speech and have beginnings, middles and ends. And they're not overworked war horses. They are fresh slices of modern life that will focus maximum attention on you. And they are presented in larger, readable type and spacing. They are also printed on non-glare, eye-easy paper. Every consideration has been taken to make dramatic books easy on the actor, to make them readily usable, effective tools. The accent is on you. Wildlife Review, 1964

Legislative scrutiny Great Britain: Parliament: Joint Committee on Human Rights, 2011-10-07. This report welcomes the enhanced human rights protection which the Protection of Freedoms Bill HC 189 ISBN 9780215558091 would provide by proposing to repeal or reform measures which impinge on rights and freedoms. But this protection should be strengthened further in some areas. The Committee welcomes the Government's review of existing powers of entry to private properties including homes which has identified around 1200 statutory powers with associated powers of entry. But it is deeply concerned that the proposed breadth of proposals in the Bill could create new risks to individual rights by authorising the Government to extend existing powers of entry. The provisions relating to biometric material create a less intrusive mechanism for the retention of DNA and fingerprints. However, the Bill creates some unjustified risks to the individual right to privacy and the Government should provide further justification or amend the Bill significantly. There should be new safeguards in relation to the processing of children's biometric information. The Committee welcomes the proposal for a surveillance code to regulate the operation of CCTV by public authorities and the permanent reduction in the maximum period of pre-charge detention of terrorist suspects to 14 days. However, it questions whether the need to provide for a contingency power to extend the period of pre-charge detention in the event of a future emergency is supported by the evidence. The Committee also supports changing the Public Order Act 1986 to remove all reference to public order offences based upon insulting words or behaviour. Amusing Musings by the Lady Rev Carol Hermann, 2018-01-31. This book contains a number of the religious columns that Rev Hermann has written over the years. Each column is written with the hope of drawing someone a step closer to Christ. They are written in a way that will hopefully connect people to their faith in God. Some of them draw on our sense of humor and some are far more serious. But they are all written in a way that will bring joy and love into someone's life.
