Prosecuted mentality of landowners Now however the law of trespass is under challenge After mass trespasses and days of protest against Forbidden Britain we have a government committed to creating a general right of public access over at least part of rural Britain But such a right to roam will be fiercely resisted by some What would it really mean for agriculture forestry and wildlife as well as recreation Who would benefit and who would lose out In this illuminating book Marion Shoard dubbed the Rachel Carson of the British conservation movement answers these questions and places them in what turns out to be a fascinating historical philosophical and political context The result provides essential reading for anyone concerned about the balance of power in a changing Britain as well as the fate of our changing countryside Peak District Roland Smith, 2005

The right of access to open countryside Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, Edward Leigh, 2007-06-21 The Countryside Rights of Way Act 2000 introduced a public right to walk across designated mountain moor heath downs and registered common land in England DEFRA tasked the Countryside Agency with opening up the new access by the end of 2005 and the target was met with two months to spare However the implementation of the right to roam cost the Countryside Agency 24.6 million more than anticipated with knock on impacts on other programmes This report looks at the implementation of open access and the effect of the policy under the headings encouraging the public to use the right to roam across the countryside protecting the environment of access land and the rights of landowners improving planning and project management However the success of legislation is as yet unknown because there is no information on the extent to which the public are making use of their new right In October 2006 the responsibility for open access passed from the Countryside Agency to Natural England

The End of Tradition? Ian D. Rotherham, 2014 The threats from global cultural change and abandonment of traditional landscape management increased in the last half of the twentieth century and ten years into the twenty first century show no signs of slowing down Their impacts on global biodiversity and on people disconnected from their traditional landscapes pose real and serious economic and social problems which need to be addressed now The End of Tradition conference held in Sheffield UK was organised by Ian D Rotherham and colleagues It addressed the fundamental issues of whether we can conserve the biodiversity of wonderful and iconic landscapes and reconnect people to their natural environment And if we can how can we do so and make them relevant for the twenty first century The book is in two parts Part 1 A History of Commons and Commons

Management and Part 2 Commons Current Management and Problems      Changing Environments Susan Bermingham,2000

Thomas Arthur Leonard and the Co-operative Holidays Association Douglas George Hope, 2016-12-14. This book focuses on Thomas Arthur Leonard, a Congregational minister in Colne, Lancashire, in the 1890s and the Co-operative Holidays Association which he founded in 1893. The Co-operative Holidays Association, which was re-named the Countrywide Holidays Association in 1964, but was always affectionately known as the CHA, operated as an independent provider of outdoor holidays until 2002. Leonard left the CHA in 1913 to establish the

Holiday Fellowship an organisation with similar ideals to the CHA which continues to trade as HF Holidays Leonard was also instrumental in the establishment of the Youth Hostels Association in 1930 and the formation of the Ramblers Association in 1935 of which he was the first President He strongly supported the National Trust founded in 1895 and was a stalwart of the campaign for national parks during the 1930s He was a founder member of the Friends of the Lake District in 1934 and was connected with a number of other outdoor holiday organisations This book details the life and achievements of this extraordinary man who rebelled against the conventionality of the 1880s and 1890s and was appalled by the dull and grim lives of artisans and textile workers in the industrial north of England It also tells the story of the CHA which pioneered walking holidays in the outdoors for working people from its foundation in 1893 to its demise in 2004 The book describes how the CHA faced the challenges of changing social economic and cultural conditions during the twentieth century such as increasing affluence and consumer choice changing cultural attitudes and expectations the popularisation of outdoor recreation and the proliferation of outdoor holiday providers It shows how the CHA drifted away from its original ideals in an attempt to remain viable in the face of increasing consumerism but nevertheless continued to provide holidays for thousands of people based on healthy recreation and quiet enjoyment and the principles of friendship and fellowship
