This text addresses instructional issues and provides a wealth of classroom strategies to help all middle and secondary teachers effectively enable their students to develop both content concepts and strategies for continued learning. The goal is to help teachers model through excellent instruction the importance of lifelong content area learning. This working textbook provides students maximum interaction with the information strategies and examples presented in each chapter. This book is organized around five themes: Content Area Reading, An Overview, The Teacher and the Text, The Students, The Instructional Program, School Culture and Environment in Middle and High School Classrooms. Pedagogical features in each chapter include a graphic organizer, a chapter overview, Think Before, Think While, and Think After Reading Activities, which are designed to integrate students' previous knowledge and experience with their new learnings about issues related to content area reading, literacy and learning, and to serve as catalysts for thinking and discussions. This textbook is intended as a primary text for courses on middle and high school content area literacy and learning.

Exploring Diversity Jean E. Brown, Elaine C. Stephens, 1996-04-15 Help students explore their own identity through fiction, biographies, and autobiographies; examine their most significant relationships, i.e., with family members and friends; and learn about different racial, ethnic, and cultural traditions through contemporary realistic fiction and historical fiction. Brown and Stephens also describe outstanding books and authors that enhance the perspective of diversity and they address controversial issues related to the use of multicultural literature. Jim Crow Terminals Anke Ortlepp, 2017-07-01 Historical accounts of racial discrimination in transportation have focused until now on trains, buses, and streetcars and their respective depots, terminals, stops, and other public accommodations. It is essential to add airplanes and airports to this narrative, says Anke Ortlepp. Air travel stands at the center of the twentieth century's transportation revolution, and airports embodied the rapidly mobilizing, increasingly prosperous, and cosmopolitan character of the postwar United States. When segregationists inscribed local definitions of whiteness and blackness onto sites of interstate and even international transit, they not only brought the incongruities of racial separation into sharp relief but also obligated the federal government to intervene. Ortlepp looks at African American passengers, civil rights organizations, the federal government, and judiciary, and airport planners, architects, and managers as actors in shaping aviation's legal, cultural, and built environments. She relates the struggles of black travelers to enjoy the same freedoms on the airport grounds that they enjoyed in the aircraft cabin in the context of larger shifts in the postwar social, economic, and political order. Jim Crow Terminals, Ortlepp shows us, were both spatial expressions of sweeping change and sites of confrontation over the renegotiation of racial identities. Hence, this new study situates itself in the scholarly debate over the multifaceted entanglements of race and space.

Nonviolence before King Anthony C. Siracusa, 2021-05-21 In the early 1960s, thousands of Black activists used nonviolent direct action to challenge segregation at lunch counters, movie theaters, skating rinks, public pools, and churches across the United States, battling for and winning social change. Organizers against segregation had used litigation and protests for decades, but not until the advent of nonviolence did they succeed in transforming ingrained patterns of white supremacy on a massive scale In this book Anthony C Siracusa unearths the deeper lineage of anti war pacifist activists and thinkers from the early twentieth century who developed nonviolence into a revolutionary force for Black liberation Telling the story of how this powerful political philosophy came to occupy a central place in the Black freedom movement by 1960 Siracusa challenges the idea that nonviolent freedom practices faded with the rise of the Black Power movement He asserts nonviolence s staying power insisting that the indwelling commitment to struggle for freedom collectively in a spirit of nonviolence became for many a lifelong commitment In the end what was revolutionary about the nonviolent method was its ability to assert the basic humanity of Black Americans to undermine racism s dehumanization and to insist on the right to be     Extremist for Love Rufus Burrow Jr. ,2014-01-01 In spite of extensive research and publishing on King insufficient attention has been given to the convergence of ideas and action in his life In an era where people are often sorted into the categories of thinker and doer King stands out a rare mix of the deeply profound thinker and intellect who put the fruit of that reflection into the service of direct social action     Martin Luther King, Jr., and the Theology of Resistance Rufus Burrow, Jr.,2014-11-19 It has been nearly fifty years since Martin Luther King Jr was assassinated at the Lorraine Motel in Memphis Tennessee Appraisals of King s contributions began almost immediately and continue to this day The author explores a great many of King s chief ideas and socio ethical practices his concept of a moral universe his doctrine of human dignity his belief that not all suffering is redemptive his brand of personalism his contribution to the development of social ethics the inclusion of young people in the movement sexism as a contradiction to his personalism the problem of black on black violence and others The book reveals both the strengths and the limitations in King s theological socio ethical project and shows him to have relentlessly applied personalist ideas to organized nonviolent resistance campaigns in order to change the world Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here     Blue Jenkins Julia Pferdehirt,2013-06-19 When William Blue Jenkins was only six months old he moved with his parents from a Mississippi sharecropper s farm to the industrial city of Racine Wisconsin with dreams of a new life As an African American in the pre civil rights era Blue came face to face with racism the Ku Klux Klan hung a black figure in effigy from a tree in the Jenkins family s yard Growing up Blue knew where blacks could shop eat and get a job in Racine and where they couldn t The injustices that confronted Blue in his young life would drive his desire to make positive changes to his community and workplace in adulthood This addition to the Badger Biographies series shares Blue Jenkins s story as it acquaints young readers with African American and labor history Following an all star career as a high school football player Blue became involved in unions through his work at Belle City Malleable As World War II raged on he participated in the home front battle against discrimination in work housing and economic opportunity When Blue became president of the union at Belle City he organized blood drives and fought for safety regulations He also helped to integrate labor union offices In 1962 he became president of the U A W National Foundry in the

Rawson, 2016-10-31 This important book is a call to action for the library community to address the literacy and life outcome gaps impacting African American youth It provides strategies that enable school and public librarians to transform their services programs and collections to be more responsive to the literacy strengths experiences and needs of African American youth According to National Assessment of Educational Progress NEAP only 18 percent of African American fourth graders and 17 percent of African American eighth graders performed at or above proficiency in reading in 2013 This book draws on research from various academic fields to explore the issues surrounding African American literacy and to aid in developing culturally responsive school and library programs with the goal of helping to close the achievement gap and improve the quality of life for African American youth The book merges the work of its three authors along with the findings of other researchers and practitioners highlighting exemplary programs such as the award winning Pearl Bailey Library Program the Maker Jawn initiative at the Free Library of Philadelphia and the Blue Ribbon Mentor Advocate writing institute in the Chapel Hill Carrboro City Schools among others Readers will understand how these culturally responsive programs put theory and research based best practices into local action and see how to adapt them to meet the needs of their communities
