French Fighters Of World War Two Men Machines:

Men, Machines, and War Ronald Haycock, Keith Neilson, 2006-01-01 Using examples from the last two centuries this collection of essays discusses the close links between technology and war In the opening essay distinguished historian William H McNeill demonstrates the extent to which military technology has often led to differentiations among people both within and between societies The other studies examine various aspects of weapons technology drawing on the history of the armed forces of Britain Prussia and Australia among others Some of these illustrate how the adoption of new weaponry frequently depended as much on national pride and party politics as it did on the purely technical merits of the weapons involved that financial considerations became increasingly primary in technological developments in British army after World War I and that decisions made prior to 1939 about the aviation technology to be developed for military purposes largely determined what kind of the RAF was able to fight The chapter by Dr G R Lindsay the Chief of the Operational Research and Analysis Establishment at the Department of National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa makes the case that with nuclear weapons added to the scene the impact of technology on international security has never been as great as at present and that the competition of nations seeking the technological edge in weaponry threatens to destabilize the precarious balance that has existed since 1945

Slaughter, 2005-04-08

Airpower over the Rhine is a critical new perspective on the air battle between the French Air Force FAF and the Luftwaffe in the skies over France during May and June 1940 Why were the French overpowered in the air What factors led to their defeat Author James F Slaughter III examines how each country's leadership created the circumstances that enabled the Luftwaffe's victory over the FAF and Germany's ultimate defeat of France Conventional wisdom especially in the English speaking world purports that the FAF was a nonentity whose loss was all but guaranteed But the FAF did in fact show up to fight With virtually every disadvantage and under impossible conditions FAF pilots nevertheless managed to land significant blows against the Luftwaffe far more than they are given credit for today Slaughter traces this misconception to a largely collaborationist cover up beginning with the Rion Trials in Vichy France that was then perpetuated by Cold War politics and popular mythology Rather than absence or incompetence the FAF lost due to a series of complex internal conflicts within French leadership both political and military that set them up to fail This work compares and examines six fundamental areas that affected the development of the FAF and the Luftwaffe aircraft and equipment the aircraft industries intelligence the experiences of the Spanish Civil War doctrine and training and politics and air power It also offers new World War II on Film David Lührssen, 2020-11-09 World War II on Film examines the war through the lens of 12 films. The movies selected include productions made during World War II and in each succeeding decade providing a sense of how different generations perceive the war. World War II on Film provides a succinct yet well-grounded appraisal of that war as seen through 12 representative films. The book separates fact from fiction showing where the movies were accurate and where they departed from reality and places them in the larger context of historical and social events. Each movie chosen represents a particular aspect of the conflict including the air war over Europe, the condition of prisoners of war, Nazi atrocities and the British evacuation at Dunkirk. Unlike most histories of Hollywood during World War II or the genre of war movies, World War II on Film examines in depth the relation between the depictions of events, beliefs, attitudes and ways of life as seen on film with reality as documented by historians or recorded by journalists or eyewitnesses to the war. The volume will appeal to high school and college readers as well as general interest readers and film buffs.

World War II or the Second World War was a global military conflict lasting from 1939 to 1945 which involved most of the world's nations including all of the great powers eventually forming two opposing military alliances: the Allies and the Axis. It was the most widespread war in history with more than 100 million military personnel mobilised. In a state of total war, the major participants placed their entire economic, industrial and scientific capabilities at the service of the war effort, erasing the distinction between civilian and military resources. Marked by significant events involving the mass death of civilians including the Holocaust and the only use of nuclear weapons in warfare, it was the deadliest conflict in human history, resulting in 50 million to over 70 million fatalities.
