Brent Hanchey,2010-04-21 The goal of this dissertation is to provide research on the educational and societal needs of incarcerated youth by examining teachers perceptions both academically and socially which will result in successful student transition into the traditional environment Many of the educational approaches within incarceration school settings are instituted using the traditional school model which is not conducive to the needs of incarcerated youth Within incarceration educational pedagogy youths also need socio emotional skills when faced with the transition into the traditional environment in order to avoid recidivism Community based support and prevention oriented collaboration are also required in their quest for a successful transition to mainstream society Students progress should be tracked and monitored while transitioning into the traditional environment Federal laws do not address the needs of incarcerated youth The 2001 No Child Left Behind Act fails to acknowledge that school choice is not an option for incarcerated youth Financial Disclosure Reports of Members of the U.S. House of Representatives of the ... David,Marilyn J.

Amey,2020-05-21 Higher Education is in a state of ferment People are seriously discussing whether the medieval ideal of the university as being excellent in all areas makes sense today given the number of universities that we have in the world Student fees are changing the orientation of students to the system The high rate of non repayment of fees in the UK is provoking difficult questions about whether the current system of funding makes sense There are disputes about the ratio of research to teaching and further discussions about the international delivery of courses

Quality Services in Academic Libraries Felicia Etim,2016-06-25 There is great consistency throughout these articles research projects management schemes and standards in and out of librarianship Does the repetition suggest that the lessons have not yet been learned Rather it may be that there is no new silver bullet or shortcut for academic libraries Experience reveals that one may have the formal process without getting good results and vice versa the determining factor is whether the library staff managers and stakeholders define certain fundamental assumptions about the nature of the enterprise All the above have in common the following underlying components The careful definition of goals or of some kind of criteria against which success can be assessed A focus on meeting the needs of the users as defined by the library and the institution Leadership a commitment from the top conscious efforts at ensuring communication the provision of training and resources for the process of evaluation the active support of a process to promote shared values The involvement of all levels of staff in goal setting evaluation and the improvement of processes and services Integrating a process of evaluation that is continuous and adaptive whether that process is based on the framework of TQM strategic planning or another model

Academic Motherhood Kelly Ward,Lisa Wolf-Wendel,2012-08-31 Academic Motherhood tells the story of over one hundred women who are both professors and mothers and examines how they navigated their professional lives at different career stages Kelly Ward and Lisa Wolf Wendel base their findings on a longitudinal study that asks how women faculty on the tenure track manage work and family in their early careers pre tenure when their children are young under the age of five and then again in mid career post tenure when their children are older The women studied work in a range of institutional settings research universities comprehensive universities liberal arts colleges and community colleges and in a variety of disciplines including the sciences the humanities and the social sciences Much of the existing literature on balancing work and family presents a pessimistic view and offers cautionary tales of what to avoid and how to avoid it In contrast the goal of Academic Motherhood is to help tenure track faculty and the institutions at which they are employed make it work Writing for administrators prospective and current faculty as well as scholars Ward and Wolf Wendel bring an element of hope and optimism to the topic of work and family in academe They provide insight and policy recommendations that support faculty with children and offer mechanisms for problem solving at personal departmental institutional and national levels
