The Social Golf Course Zeb Welborn, John Hakim, 2014-03-06 The Social Golf Course Increasing Rounds with Social Media written by Zeb Welborn of 19th Hole Media and John Hakim from Greenskeeper.org is an introduction to golf course marketing with social media Social media is not just a marketing and sales tool It creates word of mouth excitement It can help build business It can attract more golfers Market your golf course more effectively in the 21st century with social media using tools like Facebook Twitter email marketing blogs Instagram YouTube Vine LinkedIn Greenskeeper org Google and much much more Excerpt from the Introduction Social media is changing our economy forever Offline and online worlds have collided They will forever be intertwined To stay competitive golf courses must build authentic relationships that translate into business These relationships must help trigger the most effective form of advertising word of mouth taking place on social platforms in exponentially growing numbers We ve talked with golf course owners general managers and directors of golf across the United States The sentiment is usually the same I don t understand social media one general manager said Social media is a fun thing to do but it doesn t benefit our golf course in a substantial way said a director of golf We re doing social media but it s not working a golf course marketing director said If you find yourself with similar doubts concerns or worries you should read this book social media works Here s what the Director of Golf at Arroyo Trabuco Golf Club 19th Hole Media s client for six months said We wanted to thank our customers on our Facebook page by offering discounted rounds but we can t because we re booked solid until 4pm The General Manager at San Dimas Canyon Golf Course 19th Hole Media s client for eight months said We ve had the best month we ve ever had at this time of the year and in comparison with other golf courses similar to ours we re doing extremely well And as Tom Robinson a golfer at Los Serranos Country Club said Its been a year since adding Los Serranos to my likes list on Facebook and in that time I ve played five rounds never as a single at the country club Traditionally I will play maybe two total rounds per year at the course because of where I live Many golf course owners and operators are failing to see the potential of social media And the potential is massive We can t ignore change and change is upon us all People are consuming information at an unprecedented rate And the best way to be heard in the noise of information bombarding golfers is to reach them relevantly as they are deciding when and where to play And that is happening on social media effective social media Social media can help your golf course communicate with golfers 24 hours a day seven days a week Imagine having thousands of golfers talking about your golf course daily when they aren t even at your course And the best part is the value you create is yours You get the benefit not golf magazines or tee time wholesalers By using social media effectively you are communicating directly to the golfer and future customer rather than through a third party achieving brand loyalty So the culture of a golf course should change to incorporate the social media online world into the traditional offline world to create the 21st century golf course The Social Golf Course
