The Great American Mosaic Gary Y. Okihiro, Lionel C. Bascom, James E. Seelye Jr., Emily Moberg Robinson, Guadalupe Compeán, 2014-09-30. Firsthand sources are brought together to illuminate the diversity of American history in a unique way by sharing the perspectives of people of color who participated in landmark events. This invaluable four-volume compilation is a comprehensive source of documents that give voice to those who comprise the American mosaic, illustrating the experiences of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States. Each volume focuses on a major racial/ethnic group: African Americans, American Indians, Asian Americans, and Pacific Islanders, and Latinos. Documents chosen by the editors for their utility and relevance to popular areas of study are organized into chronological periods from historical to contemporary. The collection includes eyewitness accounts, legislation, speeches, and interviews. Together, they tell the story of America's diverse population and enable readers to explore historical concepts and contexts from multiple viewpoints Introductions for each volume and primary document provide background and history that help students understand and critique the material The work also features a useful primary document guide bibliographies and indices to aid teachers librarians and students in class work and research

Past Bodies Dusan Boric, John Robb, 2014-01-31 Archaeology often struggles in envisioning real people behind the world of material objects it studies Even when dealing with skeletal remains archaeologists routinely reduce them to long lists of figures and attributes Such a fragmentation of past subjects and their bodies if analytically necessary is hardly satisfactory While material culture is the main archaeological proxy to real people in the past the absence of past bodies has been chronic in archaeological writings At the same time these past bodies in archaeology are omnipresent Bodily matters are tangible in the archaeological record in a way most other theoretical centralities never appear to be Ancient bodies surround us in representations in burials in the remains of food preparation cooking and consumption in hands holding tools in joint efforts of many individual bodies who built architecture and monuments This collection of papers is a reaction to decades of the body's invisibility It raises the body as the central topic in the study of past societies researching its appearance in a wide variety of regional contexts and across vast spans of archaeological time Contributions in this volume range from the deep Epi Palaeolithic past of the Near East through the European Neolithic and Bronze Age Classical Greece and Late Medieval England to pre-Columbian Central America post-contact North America and the most recent conflicts in the Balkans In all these case studies the materiality of the body is centre stage Possibilities are highlighted for future study by putting the body at the forefront of these
