Ecology Of Practice Studies Of Food Crop Production In Subsaharan West Africa:

The Ecology of Practice A. Endre Nyerges, 1997 This pioneering work addresses the topic of hunger and food security in western Africa and the contributing authors are anthropologists who seek to understand the sociocultural factors involved in the environmental and economic aspects of food production Case studies from regions of Mauritania Senegal and Sierra Leone discuss how local farmers are responding to change and problems of food security The book focuses on technology and changing patterns of resource use in a social context This volume also has a comparative focus both within and across cultural areas and draws implications for planning and policy from the discussions of diverse agricultural systems The concept of ecology of practice which emphasizes the importance of local social arrangements in alleviating or aggravating problems of food security makes this book valuable to readers whose interests lie within as well as outside western Africa

Ecology of Practice A. Endre Nyerges, 2016-01-20 First Published in 1998 The study of the origin development and diversity of the human diet is emerging as a coherent field that offers a much needed integrative framework for our contemporary knowledge of the ecology of food and nutrition This authoritative series of monographs and symposia volumes on the history and anthropology of food and nutrition is designed to address this need by providing integrative approaches to the study of various problems within the human food chain As a series it offers many unique opportunities for a wide range of scientists scholars and other professionals representing anthropology archaeology food history economics agriculture folklore nutrition medicine pharmacology public health and public policy to exchange important new knowledge discoveries and methods involved in the study of all aspects of human food ways The Biodemography of Subsistence Farming

James W. Wood, 2020-04-23 An exploration of preindustrial agriculture that applies insights from biodemography physiological ecology and household demography Against the Grain Bradley B. Walters, 2008-01-17 Against the Grain gathers scholars from across disciplines to explore the work of ecological anthropologist Andrew P Vayda and the future of the study of human ecology The Politics and Poetics of Water Lyla Mehta, 2005 The book studies the relationship between large dams and water scarcity in Kutch It argues that water scarcity is not merely natural but is embedded in the social and power relations shaping water access use and practices Scarcity is portrayed as natural rather than human induced and this naturalisation of scarcity is beneficial to those who are powerful This is a significant book in the light of the growing water crisis in India and the world Agribusiness and Society Kees Jansen, Sietze Vellema, 2013-07-04 This volume examines how far agribusiness corporations are responding to the opportunities and pressures resulting from emerging environmental awareness In particular in what ways are they changing their R some changed their production practices in a sustainable way while others have complied with or resisted state environmental regulation notably labelling systems and certification Each study explores how institutional cultural economic political and technological contexts shape the strategies of big business Topics include green bananas genetically modified tomatoes and soy the new markets in organic produce health and pesticides and access to justice The book explains why some corporations are successful in introducing environmentally friendly innovations and others are not The key to understanding contrasting outcomes is examining the interaction between internal corporate environments where profit and efficiency considerations predominate and external environments where consumer preferences NGO pressures and government regulation are important The book also explores possible new roles for the public sector The result is a sophisticated and critical analysis of business practices and regulatory systems in the agro food sector

Cooking and Coping Among the Cacti Roberta D. Baer, 2014-05-01 Using data collected from 105 households in Sonora Mexico the author combines detailed ethnographic research with quantitative analyses of income diet and nutritional status to examine the dietary patterns of residents who cook and cope among the cacti Employing a new analytical concept of available income which can differ greatly from total income and provide valuable insight into why people eat what they do the work explores a variety of social and cultural factors that affect food expenditure and consumption Home production of food and the extent to which women are employed outside of the home are just two of the many variables discussed that influence available income and how it is used But even among groups with similar available incomes variables of ethnicity prestige nutritional knowledge and the desire for consumer goods come into play

Local Subversions of Colonial Cultures Harro Maat, Sandip Hazareesingh, 2016-01-26 The book brings together original state of the art historical research from several continents and examines how mainly local peasant societies responded to colonial pressures to produce a range of different commodities It offers new directions in the study of African Asian Caribbean and Latin American societies

Cultures of Environmental Communication Sara Nofri, 2012-12-11 Sara Nofri combines several research methods multilingual bibliographic research quantitative content analysis semiotic text analysis interviews to journalists and a cross cultural interdisciplinary perspective for investigating environmental communication in the daily quality press of Germany Italy Sweden and UK She provides an in depth portrait of the features the focus the themes and stakeholders involved individuates different cultures of environment and cultures of communication and provides insights and practical tools to analyze and then evaluate environmental communication The methodological approach of this study can be readily transposed to studies investigating other contexts cultures and media

Zapotec Science Roberto J. González, 2010-01-01 2003 Julian Steward Award Anthropology Environment Section American Anthropological Association 2002 A CHOICE Outstanding Academic Book How Zapotec agricultural and dietary theories and practices constitute a valid local science Zapotec farmers in the northern sierra of Oaxaca Mexico are highly successful in providing their families with abundant nutritious food in an ecologically sustainable fashion although the premises that guide their agricultural practices would be considered erroneous by the standards of most agronomists and botanists in the United States and Europe In this book Roberto Gonz lez convincingly argues that in fact Zapotec agricultural and dietary theories and practices constitute a valid local science which has had a reciprocally beneficial relationship with European and United States farming and food systems since the sixteenth century Gonz lez bases his analysis upon direct participant observation in the farms and fields of a Zapotec village By using the ethnographic fieldwork approach he is able to describe and analyze the rich meanings that campesino families attach to their crops lands and animals Gonz lez also reviews the history of maize sugarcane and coffee cultivation in the Zapotec region to show how campesino farmers have intelligently and scientifically adapted their farming practices to local conditions over the course of centuries By setting his ethnographic study of the Talea de Castro community within a historical world systems perspective he also skillfully weighs the local impact of national and global currents ranging from Spanish colonialism to the 1910 Mexican Revolution to NAFTA At the same time he shows how at the turn of the twenty first century the sustainable practices of traditional subsistence agriculture are beginning to replace the failed unsustainable techniques of modern industrial farming in some parts of the United States and Europe

Healing the Herds Karen Brown, Daniel Gilfoyle, 2010-01-15 During the early 1990s the ability of dangerous diseases to pass between animals and humans was brought once more to the public consciousness These concerns continue to raise questions about how livestock diseases have been managed over time and in different social economic and political circumstances Healing the Herds Disease Livestock Economies and the Globalization of Veterinary Medicine brings together case studies from the Americas western Europe and the European and Japanese colonies to illustrate how the rapid growth of the international trade in animals through the nineteenth century engendered the spread of infectious diseases sometimes with devastating consequences for indigenous pastoral societies At different times and across much of the globe livestock epidemics have challenged social order and provoked state interventions often opposed by farmers and herders The intensification of agriculture has transformed environments with consequences for animal and human health But the last two centuries have also witnessed major changes in the way societies have conceptualized diseases and sought to control them From the late nineteenth century advances in veterinary technologies afforded veterinary scientists a new professional status and allowed them to wield greater political influence While older methods have remained important to strategies of control and prevention as demonstrated during the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in Britain in 2001 the rise of germ theories and the discovery of vaccines against some infections made it possible to move beyond the blunt tools of animal culls and restrictive quarantines of the past Healing the Herds Disease Livestock Economies and the Globalization of Veterinary Medicine offers a new and exciting comparative approach to the complex interrelationships of microbes markets and medicine in the global economy

Rice Francesca Bray, Peter A. Coclanis, Edda L. Fields-Black, Dagmar Schäfer, 2015-02-19 Rice is a first step toward a history of rice and its place in capitalism from global and comparative perspectives

Farmers, Scientists, and Plant Breeding David Arthur Cleveland, Daniela Soleri, 2002-01-01 The purpose of this book is to examine the nature of and relationship between the knowledge of farmers and of scientists and how these can be best integrated in plant breeding

Africa ,2002 Includes Proceedings of the Executive council and List of members also section Review of books

Science and Citizens Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, Brian Wynne, 2013-04-04 Rapid advances and new technologies in the life sciences such as biotechnologies in health agricultural and environmental arenas pose a range of pressing challenges to questions of citizenship This volume brings together for the first time authors from diverse experiences and analytical traditions encouraging a conversation between science and technology and development studies around issues of science citizenship and globalisation It reflects on the nature of expertise the framing of knowledge processes of public engagement and issues of rights justice and democracy A wide variety of pressing issues is explored such as medical genetics agricultural biotechnology occupational health and HIV AIDS Drawing upon rich case studies from Asia Africa Latin America and Europe Science and Citizens asks Do new perspectives on science expertise and citizenship emerge from comparing cases across different issues and settings What difference does globalisation make What does this tell us about approaches to risk regulation and public participation How might the notion of cognitive justice help to further debate and practice

Land, Labour and Entrustment Pamela Kea, 2010 Challenging portrayals of West African female farmers as a homogenous group the present study provides an ethnographic account of the contractual relations established between female hosts and migrants in the exchange of land and labour for agrarian production in The Gambia

Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates, Judith Tucker, 2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conservation outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fast growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field

Deep Roots Edda L. Fields-Black, 2008-10-20 Mangrove rice farming on West Africa's Rice Coast was the mirror image of tidewater rice plantations worked by enslaved Africans in 18th century South Carolina and Georgia This book reconstructs the development of rice growing technology among the Baga and Nalu of coastal Guinea beginning more than a millennium before the transatlantic slave trade It reveals a picture of dynamic pre colonial coastal societies quite unlike the static homogenous pre modern Africa of previous scholarship From its examination of inheritance innovation and borrowing Deep Roots fashions a theory of cultural change that encompasses the diversity of communities cultures and forms of expression in Africa and the African diaspora Making Climate Forecasts Matter National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Environmental Change and Society,Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Panel on the Human Dimensions of Seasonal-to-Interannual Climate Variability,1999-05-27 El Nino has been with us for centuries but now we can forecast it and thus can prepare far in advance for the extreme climatic events it brings The emerging ability to forecast climate may be of tremendous value to humanity if we learn how to use the information well How does society cope with seasonal to interannual climatic variations How have climate forecasts been used and how useful have they been What kinds of forecast information are needed Who is likely to benefit from forecasting skill What are the benefits of better forecasting This book reviews what we know about these and other questions and identifies research directions toward more useful seasonal to interannual climate forecasts In approaching their recommendations the panel explores Vulnerability of human activities to climate State of the science of climate forecasting How societies coevolved with their climates and cope with variations in climate How climate information should be disseminated to achieve the best response How we can use forecasting to better manage the human consequences of climate change Towards Effective and Sustainable Seed Relief Activities Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2004-01-01 This report contains papers given to a FAO workshop meeting held in Rome in May 2003 organised to consider how to improve the effectiveness of seed relief schemes to promote sustainable development and food security to identify gaps in the development of tools guidance and methodologies and to make recommendations for further collaborative work It includes case studies of seed relief activities in several African countries
