Our Forest, Your Ecosystem, Their Timber Nicholas K. Menzies,2007-05-15

Community based forest management CBFM is a model of forest management in which a community takes part in decision making and implementation and monitoring of activities affecting the natural resources around them

CBFM provides a framework for a community members to secure access to the products and services that flow from the landscape in which they live and has become an essential component of any comprehensive approach to forest management

In this volume Nicholas K Menzies looks at communities in China Zanzibar Brazil and India where despite differences in landscape climate politics and culture common challenges and themes arise in making a transition from forest management by government agencies to CBFM The stories of these four distinct places highlight the difficulties communities face when trying to manage their forests and negotiate partnerships with others interested in forest management such as the commercial forest sector or conservation and environmental organizations These issues are then considered against a growing body of research concerning what constitutes successful CBFM Drawing on published and unpublished case studies project reports and his own rich experience Menzies analyzes how CBFM fits into the broader picture of the management of natural resources highlighting the conditions that bring about effective practices and the most just and equitable stewardship of resources A critical companion for students researchers and practitioners Our Forest Your Ecosystem Their Timber provides a singular resource on the emergence and evolution of CBFM Forest Products, Livelihoods and Conservation: case studies of non-timber forest product systems. volume 1 - Asia Koen Kusters,Brian Belcher,2004-01-01 V 1 Asia Editors Koen Kusters and Brian Belcher V 2 Africa Editors Terry Sunderland and Ousseynou Ndoye Access, Labor, and Wild Floral Greens Management in Western Washington's Forests , Access, Labor, and Wild Floral Greens Management in Western Washington's Forests Kathryn A. Sivasithamparam, K.W. Dixon, R.L. Barrett, 2007-05-08 Plant conservation is increasingly recognised as an outstanding global priority yet despite considerable efforts over the last few decades the number of threatened species continues to rise The practice of plant conservation has for too long been a rather hit or miss mixture of methods While microorganisms have been recognised as a crucial and essential element in supporting the lifecycles of plant species there has been limited recognition of the relationships between macro level conservation facilitating ecosystem functioning at the micro level This book addresses the role of microorganisms in conservation both their support functions and deleterious roles in ecosystem processes and species survival Importantly a number of authors highlight how microbial diversity is itself now under threat from the many and pervasive influences of man What is clear from this volume is that like many contemporary treatments of plant and animal conservation the solution to mitigate the erosion of biodiversity is not simple This book represents an attempt to bring to the fore the ecological underwriting provided by microorganisms
