Never before has the future been so systematically envisioned, aggressively analyzed, and grandly theorized as in the present rush to cyberspace and digitalization. In the mid-twentieth century, questions about media technologies and society first emerged as scholarly hand-wringing about the deleterious sweep of electronic media and information technologies in mass culture. Now, questions about new technologies and their social and cultural impact are no longer limited to intellectual soothsayers in the academy but are pervasive parts of day-to-day discourses in newspapers, magazines, television, and film. Electronic Media and Technoculture anchors contemporary discussion of the digital future within a critical tradition about the media, arts, society, and culture. The collection examines a range of phenomena from boutique cyber practices to the growing ubiquity of e-commerce and the Internet. The essays chart a critical field in media studies, providing a historical perspective on theories of new media. The contributors place discussions of producing technologies in dialogue with consuming technologies, new media in relation to old media, and argue that digital media should not be restricted to the constraining public discourses of either the computer, broadcast motion picture, or Internet industries.

The collection charts a range of theoretical positions to assist readers interested in new media and to enable them to weather the cycles of hardware obsolescence and theoretical volatility that characterize the present rush toward digital technologies Contributors include Ien Ang John Caldwell Cynthia Cockburn Helen Cunningham Hans Magnus Enzensberger Guillermo Gomez Pea Arthur Kroker Bill Nichols Andrew Ross Ellen Seiter Vivian Sobchack Allucqure Rosanne Stone Ravi Sundaram Michael A Weinstein Raymond Williams and Brian Winston John Thornton Caldwell is chair of the film and television department at the University of California at Los Angeles He is a filmmaker and media artist and author of Televisuality Style Crisis and Authority in American Television also from Rutgers University Press
