The book cover features a complex, layered illustration. At the top, a faint image of a computer window with a search bar and various icons is visible. Below this, a large, dark, circular shape resembling a CD-ROM or a globe is the central focus. Overlaid on this circle are several thin, black lines forming a network or orbital pattern. A small, stylized figure of a person in a white shirt and dark pants is positioned at the bottom of the circle, appearing to be looking at or interacting with it. The background is a light blue-grey color. A prominent red vertical bar runs along the left edge of the cover. The title 'WRITING FOR NEW MEDIA' is written in large, bold, yellow capital letters across the top half. Below the title, the subtitle 'THE ESSENTIAL GUIDE TO WRITING FOR INTERACTIVE MEDIA, CD-ROMS, AND THE WEB' is written in smaller, white, sans-serif capital letters. At the bottom right, the authors' names 'ANDREW BONIME' and 'KEN C. POHLMANN' are listed in a smaller, yellow, sans-serif font. A row of ten small, light green squares is located at the very bottom of the cover.

Introduction to Media Production Gorham Kindem, Robert B. Musburger, PhD, 2012-08-21 Introduction to Media Production began years ago as an alternative text that would cover ALL aspects of media production not just film or just tv or just radio Kindem and Musburger needed a book that would show students how every form of media intersects with one another and about how one needs to know the background history of how film affects video and how video affects working in a studio and ultimately how one needs to know how to put it all together Introduction to Media Production is the book that shows this intersection among the many forms of media and how students can use this intersection to begin to develop their own high quality work

Introduction to Media Production is a primary source for students of media. Its readers learn about various forms of media, how to make the best use of them, why one would choose one form of media over another, and finally about all of the techniques used to create a media project. The digital revolution has exploded all the former techniques used in digital media production, and this book covers the now restructured and formalized digital workflows that make all production processes by necessity digital. This text will concentrate on offering students and newcomers to the field the means to become aware of the critical importance of understanding the end destination of their production as a part of pre production, not the last portion of post production. Covering film, tv, video, audio, and graphics, the fourth edition of Introduction to Digital Media promises to be yet another comprehensive guide for both students of media and newcomers to the media industry. Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office, 2004

New Trends in Astronomy Teaching L. Gouguenheim, D. McNally, J. R. Percy, 1998-10. How do students learn astronomy? How can the World Wide Web be used to teach? And how do planetariums help with educating the public? These are just some of the timely questions addressed in this stimulating review of new trends in the teaching of astronomy. Based on an international meeting hosted by the University of London and the Open University IAU Colloquium 162, this volume presents articles by experts from around the world. The proceedings of the first IAU Colloquium 105, The Teaching of Astronomy, edited by Percy and Pasachoff, were first published in 1990 and soon became established as the definitive resource for astronomy teachers. Astronomy education has advanced enormously in the intervening 7 years, and this sequel will inspire and encourage teachers of astronomy at all levels and provide them with a wealth of ideas and experience on which to build.
