Bibliotheca Indica, 1912 The Akbarnāma of Abu-l-Faẓl Abū al-Faẓl ibn Muḥammad, 1912 Revival: Philosophy and the Physicists (1937) Lizzie Susan Stebbing, 2018-05-08 This book is written by a philosopher for other philosophers and for that section of the reading public who buy in large quantities and no doubt devour with great earnestness the popular books written by scientists for their enlightenment We common readers to adapt a phrase from Samuel Johnson are fitted neither to criticize physical theories nor to decide what precisely are their implications We are dependent upon the scientists for an exposition of those developments which so we find them proclaiming have important and far reaching consequences for philosophy Unfortunately however our popular expositors do not always serve us very well The two who are most widely read in this country are Sir Arthur Eddington and Sir James Jeans They are not always reliable guides Their influence has been considerable upon the reading public upon theologians and upon preachers they have even misled philosopher who should have known better Accordingly it has seemed to me to be worth while to examine in some detail the philosophical views that they have put forth and to criticize the grounds upon which these views are based Of Sex and Faerie: further essays on Genre Fiction John Lennard, 2010 Taking up where Of Modern Dragons 2007 left off these essays continue Lennard's investigation of the praxis of serial reading and the best genre fiction of recent decades including work by Bill James Walter Mosley Lois McMaster Bujold and Ursula K Le Guin There are groundbreaking studies of contemporary paranormal romance and of Hornblower's transition to space while the final essay deals with the phenomenon and explosive growth of fanfiction and with the increasingly empowered status of the reader in a digital world There is an extensive bibliography of genre and critical work with eight illustrations John Lennard is Director of Studies at Hughes Hall Cambridge and has also taught for the Universities of London Notre Dame and for the Open University and was Professor of British American Literature at the University of the West Indies Mona 2004 09 Of Modern Dragons and other essays on genre fiction 2007 is also available from Lulu Fodor's Thailand [2011] Fodor's Travel Publications, Inc. Laos Malu McDonald,2016-10-22 For my Year 12 major project at Noosa Pengari Steiner School I decided to travel to remote tribal villages in Laos to learn about their traditional culture I decided on this project because I wanted to do something worthwhile that would challenge and interest me and hopefully others but also be able to assist people in ways which they find helpful I travelled to Laos for 1 month in March 2016 taking my mother Cara as my photographer and lived with tribespeople in some of the many remote Khmu and Hmong villages near Luang Prabang that have had barely any contact with westerners It was a very challenging inspiring and successful trip and an extraordinary experience I have gained valuable insights into tribal life in Laos some of which I share with you in this book The Elephants in the Room Martin Rowe,2013 Through the lens of Rowe s relationships with two Kenyan conservationists Wangari Maathai and Daphne Sheldrick this book surveys a number of prejudices that many of us who are fortunate to be born with the privileges attached to our skin color sex and access to resources don t like to deal with race misogyny and the legacy of empire By examining the two women s memoirs Unbowed and Love Life and Elephants both of which were launched following talks at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City these metaphorical elephants in the room are combined with a study of the exploitation of actual elephants on the continent of Africa and the iterations of memory that are disclosed or hidden in the writing of memoirs and the collecting of bones for museums
