Freedom Equality And The Market Arguments On Social Policy:

Freedom, Equality and the Market Barry Hindess, 2012-10-02 This new textbook for students of social theory considers the role of public intervention in social and economic processes It is a clear critical discussion of different theoretical and political perspectives on social policy Barry Hindess begins with the consensus view shared by senior politicians civil servants and academics throughout much of the postwar period This view depends on two beliefs in the capacity of government to manage the economy and in the development of a qualitatively new relationship between the state and the population The first is discussed in relation to Crosland's The Future of Socialism and the second in relation to Marshall's conception of citizenship and Titmuss's account of social policy The consensus view generated serious objections and Hindess examines two in particular One is the argument that the view itself causes a destructive competitive struggle between sectional interests for state intervention in their favour The other from the left is that what Tawney called the strategy of equality has failed and that a more radical attack on inequality is required The remaining section looks at the Marxist and liberal alternatives to the consensus view In conclusion the author discusses firstly the essentialism of the market both in consensus and in very different ways in liberal and Marxist thought and secondly the place of principles such as freedom and equality in political discussion and the analysis of social conditions He shows that market and plan are not necessarily incompatible Freedom Equality and the Market with its careful assessment of the key texts will be important reading for undergraduate students of sociology and social policy

Welfare Services in the Netherlands and United Kingdom Sita Radhakrishnan, 1992 In the years following World War II the concept of State Welfare did seem to be the golden mean between Marxian revolution and laissez faire evolution in the human pursuit of social justice Western democratic states that upheld the primacy of the individual and his liberty over that of the State operationalized State responsibility for welfare on the basis of social policies compatible with their socio political and economic systems This resulted in the coming into existence of a large number of services rendered by the State to its citizens touching all aspects of their lives cutting through informal intermediary institutions and developing a direct link with it The focus of this study is on these services in two such states i e the Netherlands and the United Kingdom Their provision and administration for ethnic minorities that form part of their national communities is dealt with in particular The Netherlands and the United Kingdom have constitutional monarchical systems based on the sovereignty of the people Liberalism is an underlying sociological base for their societies Both had acquired overseas colonies which resulted in the settlement of people with ethnic origins different from their dominant group within their national communities These factors make the two comparable However the ideological basis social and economic forces and movements that led to the establishment of State welfare in the two states differ significantly The study reveals that their particular ideological positions on State Society relations have a significant impact on social policies adopted by them and in the modalities of their implementation The British stand on assimilation in one dominant culture and the Dutch stand on integration with acceptance of pluralism throw up the genuine problems in the harmonization of social policy in a United Europe of the future
