This volume ends with Tears for Amy, an elegy for a former classmate Amy Biehl, a Fulbright scholar killed at the age of 26 while studying the transition to democracy in South Africa. A meditation on democracy, society, humanity, and the future for which Amy was working. Tears for Amy is 676 lines long, written in 26 line stanzas of terza rima to mourn the young age at which Amy lost her life. The mission evoked in this volume's epigraph is that poetry is needed to advance with music, image, eloquence, and imagination the brave new worldview for which our modern times are urgently calling. In fulfilling that mission, the poems in this volume will unite your heart's tenderest longing with the revolutions turning in the wider world. This is poetry that will engage us the way we need to engage with our time.

Threat to the Leatherback Turtle Bonnie Hinman, 2020-02-04. Leatherbacks are sometimes called the last of the dinosaurs because their ancient ancestors lived when the dinosaurs did. Their ability to swim long distances may be one of the reasons they survived whatever killed most of the dinosaurs 65 million years ago. In modern times, one leatherback swam from Indonesia to Oregon. It had traveled 12,774 miles in 647 days, the longest distance ever tracked for a marine animal. These sea turtles are also known for returning to the same nesting sites from which they hatched. Hatchling leatherbacks make a mad dash from the sand to the sea to avoid air and land predators. While gains have been made to improve the turtles' chances against commercial fishing techniques, humans have continued building on nesting beaches and polluting the oceans. Find out what other threats the leatherbacks face and what you can do to help protect these endangered reptiles of the sea.
