Going Missing Young People Absent From Care:

Going Missing Jim Wade, Nina Biehal, 1998-12-29 Going Missing presents important findings from the first major study of young people who go missing from residential and foster homes. By exploring the diverse reasons why young people go missing and what happens when they do, the authors highlight the impact both of individual motivations and of residential and foster care contexts on the patterns associated with going missing. The authors address the serious risks that young people may encounter while missing, including the dangers associated with sleeping rough, offending, sexual exploitation, and substance misuse. The longer term implications of repeatedly going missing for the structure of young people's lives are also explored. In outlining the strengths and limits of the different professional responses to young people who go missing, the authors present an analysis of the difficult professional task of managing risk for different groups of people. Conclusions drawn from this unique study are considered in terms of their wider implications for developing preventive services for teenagers, the nature of residential and foster care provision, inter-agency approaches to supporting young people. Addressing the growing concern about runaways from residential and foster care and eliciting the wider implications for the care system today, Going Missing is essential reading for practitioners in the social and welfare services, policy makers, and students and lecturers on higher education courses.

Psychotherapy with Young People in Care Margaret Hunter, 2002-09-11 Whilst there is a wealth of literature on working with children and adolescents, very little focuses on those who are in residential or foster care. Psychotherapy with Young People in Care is a practical guide to working with this group from a psychoanalytic therapeutic perspective. Drawing on the author's years of experience and illustrated with a wealth of clinical examples, as well as a comprehensive glossary, the book tackles those issues most relevant to those working with children and adolescents: the place of psychotherapy in residential foster care, ethical considerations, confidentiality, and sexual abuse. Particular problems faced by young people, ADHD, trauma, PTSD. This refreshing and valuable book is an essential teaching text for all those who work with young people in the care system, including child and adolescent psychotherapists, psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, and social workers.

The Criminalisation and Exploitation of Children in Care Julie Shaw, Sarah Greenhow, 2020-12-27 The Criminalisation and Exploitation of Children in Care explores the results of a recent qualitative study which focused on multi-agency responses to children and young people in residential and foster care who were at risk of criminalisation and/or exploitation and abuse. Recent high-profile reports have highlighted an urgent need for effective multi-agency work to tackle the issues of criminalisation and exploitation of children and young people in care. However, progress to date has been slow, and it is clear that there is still some way to go before effective multi-agency working becomes widespread. In response, this book draws upon the experiences and perspectives of practitioners from a sample of co-located Multi-Agency Safeguarding Hubs, as well as the latest research, theory, and policy developments in the field. In doing so, it explores both the benefits and challenges of multi-agency working and concludes with recommendations for future policy and practice This timely study will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology criminal justice policing studies social work health and childhood studies It will also be a valuable tool for practitioners and policymakers in the criminal youth justice and social service arenas In Care and After Elaine Chase, Antonia Simon, Sonia Jackson, 2013-05-13

Based on research from the Thomas Coram Research Unit the contributors to this text look at the views and experiences of young people and provide an encouraging outlook of what those in care have the potential to achieve Those factors that help to result in more successful outcomes are identified and policy recommendations are made for enabling young people in and leaving care to triumph when the odds are stacked against them In Care and After adds a new dimension to the current literature on local authority care of young people and children Those working within the fields of social care health and education as well as students on social work courses will find this essential reading and a welcome addition Missing

Persons Karen Shalev Greene, Llian Alys, 2016-10-14 A missing person is an individual whose whereabouts are unknown and where there is some concern for his or her wellbeing In the UK around 250 000 people are reported missing every year with the majority being children under the age of 18 Despite the fact that missing persons are a social phenomenon which encompasses vast areas of interest relatively little is known about those who go missing what happens to them while they are missing and what can be done to prevent these incidents from occurring This groundbreaking book brings together for the first time ideas and expertise across this vast subject area into one interconnected publication It explores the subjects of missing children missing adults the investigative process of missing person cases and the families of missing persons Those with no prior knowledge or professionals with focused knowledge in some areas will be able to expand their understanding of a variety of topics relevant to this field through detailed chapters which advance our understanding of this complex phenomenon discuss what is unknown and suggest the best and most important steps forward to further advance our knowledge Young People on the Margins Loic Menzies, Sam Baars, 2021-03-30

Our society leaves too many young people behind More often than not these are the most vulnerable young people and it is through no fault of their own Building a fair society and an equitable education system rests on bringing in and supporting them By drawing together more than a decade of studies by the UK's Centre for Education and Youth this book provides a new way of understanding the many ways young people in England are pushed to the margins of the education system and in turn society Each contributor shares the personal stories of the young people they have encountered over the course of their fieldwork and practice combining this with accessible syntheses of previous studies alongside extensive analysis of national datasets and key publications By unpicking the many overlapping factors that contribute to different groups vulnerability the book demonstrates the need to understand each young person's life story and to respond quickly and collaboratively to the challenges they face The chapters conclude with action points highlighting the steps individuals institutions and policy makers can take to bring young people in from the margins Young People on the Margins showcases first hand examples of where these young people's needs are being addressed and trends bucked drawing out what can and must be learned for teachers leaders youth workers and policy makers
