The Scarlett Letters John Wiley, 2014-10-08 One month after her novel Gone With the Wind was published Margaret Mitchell sold the movie rights for fifty thousand dollars Fearful of what the studio might do to her story I wouldn't put it beyond Hollywood to have Scarlett seduce General Sherman she joked the author washed her hands of involvement with the film However driven by a maternal interest in her literary firstborn and compelled by her Southern manners to answer every fan letter she received Mitchell was unable to stay aloof for long In this collection of her letters about the 1939 motion picture classic readers have a front row seat as the author watches the Dream Factory at work learning the ins and outs of filmmaking and discovering the peculiarities of a movie-crazed public Her ability to weave a story so evident in Gone With the Wind makes for delightful reading in her correspondence with a who's who of Hollywood from producer David O. Selznick director George Cukor and screenwriter Sidney Howard to cast members Clark Gable Vivien Leigh Leslie Howard Olivia de Havilland and Hattie McDaniel Mitchell also wrote to thousands of others aspiring actresses eager to play Scarlett O'Hara fellow Southerners hopeful of seeing their homes or their grandmother's dress used in the film rabid movie fans determined that their favorite star be cast and creators of songs dolls and Scarlett panties who were convinced the author was their ticket to fame and fortune During the film's production she corrected erring journalists and the producer's over-the-top publicist who fed the gossip mills accuracy be damned Once the movie finished she struggled to deal with friends and strangers alike who fought and trampled little children and connived and broke the ties of lifelong friendship to get tickets to the premiere But through it all she retained her sense of humor Recounting an acquaintance's denial of the rumor that the author herself was going to play Scarlett Mitchell noted he ungallantly stated that I was something like fifty years too old for the part After receiving numerous letters and phone calls from the studio about Belle Watling's accent the author related her father was convulsed at the idea of someone telephoning from New York to discover how the madam of a Confederate bordello talked And in a chatty letter to Gable after the premiere Mitchell coyly admitted being feminine enough to be quite charmed by his statement to the press that she was fascinating but added Even my best friends look at me in a speculative way probably wondering what they overlooked that your sharp eyes saw As Gone With the Wind marks its seventy fifth anniversary on the silver screen these letters edited by Mitchell historian John Wiley Jr offer a fresh look at the most popular motion picture of all time through the eyes of the woman who gave birth to Scarlett

Disarming the Nation Elizabeth Young, 1999-12-15 In a study that will radically shift our understanding of Civil War literature Elizabeth Young shows that American women writers have been profoundly influenced by the Civil War and that in turn their works have contributed powerfully to conceptions of the war and its aftermath Offering fascinating reassessments of works by white writers such as Harriet Beecher Stowe Louisa May Alcott and Margaret Mitchell and African American writers including Elizabeth Keckley Frances Harper and Margaret Walker Young also highlights crucial but lesser known texts such as the memoirs of women who masqueraded as soldiers In each case she explores the interdependence of gender with issues of race sexuality region and nation Combining literary analysis cultural history and feminist theory Disarming the Nation argues that the Civil War functioned in women's writings to connect female bodies with the body politic. Women writers used the idea of civil war as a metaphor to represent struggles between and within women, including struggles against the cultural prescriptions of civility. At the same time, these writers also reimagined the nation itself, foregrounding women in their visions of America at war and in peace. In a substantial afterword, Young shows how contemporary black and white women, including those who crossdress in Civil War reenactments, continue to reshape the meanings of the war in ways startlingly similar to their nineteenth-century counterparts. Learned, witty, and accessible, Disarming the Nation provides fresh and compelling perspectives on the Civil War, women's writing, and the many unresolved civil wars within American culture today.

Screening American Nostalgia Susan Flynn, Antonia Mackay, 2021-07-27. This book examines American screen culture and its power to create and sustain values. Looking specifically at the ways in which nostalgia colors the visions of American life, essays explore contemporary American ideology as it is created and sustained by the screen. Nostalgia is omnipresent, selling a version of America that arguably never existed. Current socio-cultural challenges are played out onscreen and placed within the historical milieu through a nostalgic lens, which is tempered by contemporary conservatism. Essays reveal not only the visual catalog of recognizable motifs but also how these are used to temper the uncertainty of contemporary crises. Media covered spans from 1939's Gone with the Wind to Stranger Things, The Americans, Twin Peaks, the Fallout franchise, and more.

Irish Catholic Writers and the Invention of the American South Bryan Giemza, 2013-07-08. In this comprehensive study, Bryan Giemza retrieves a missing chapter of Irish Catholic heritage by canvassing the literature of American Irish writers from the U.S. South. Beginning with the first Irish American novel published in Winchester, Virginia, in 1817, Giemza investigates nineteenth-century writers contending with the turbulence of their time, writers influenced by both American and Irish revolutions, dramatists and propagandists of the Civil War, and memoirists of the Lost Cause. Some familiar names arise in an Irish context, including Joel Chandler Harris and Kate O'Flaherty. Chopin. Giemza then turns to the works of twentieth-century writers such as Margaret Mitchell, John Kennedy Toole, and Pat Conroy. For each author, Giemza traces the impact of Catholicism on their ethnic identity and their work. Giemza draws on many never-before-seen documents, including the correspondence of Cormac McCarthy, interviews with members of the Irish community in Flannery O'Connor's native Savannah, Georgia, and Giemza's own correspondence with writers such as Valerie Sayers and Anne Rice. This lively history prompts a new understanding of how the Catholic Irish in the South helped invent a regional myth, an enduring literature, and a national image.
