Edna's Nudes Barbara Bullock-Wilson, 1995 American Women Photographers Martha Kreisel, 1999-02-28

American women have made significant contributions to the field of photography for well over a century. This bibliography compiles more than 1 070 sources for over 600 photographers from the 1880s to the present. As women's role in society changed, so did their role as photographers. In the early years, women often served as photographic assistants in their husbands' studios. The photography equipment, initially heavy and difficult to transport, was improved in the 1880s by George Eastman's innovations. With the lighter camera equipment, photography became accessible to everyone. Women photographers became journalists and portraitists who documented vanishing cultures and ways of life. Many of these important female photographers recorded life in the growing Northwest, and the streets of New York City became pioneers of historic photography as they captured the plight of Americans fleeing the Dust Bowl and the horrors of the concentration camps, and were members of the Photo Secessionist Movement to promote photography as a true art form. This source serves as a checklist for not only the famous but also the less familiar women photographers who deserve attention. Communal

Nude Robert Gluck, 2016-05-13. The collected essays of the cofounder of the New Narrative movement on theory, identity, poetry, and muses, from Kathy Acker to Georges Bataille. I read and wrote to invoke what seemed impossible relation itself in order to take part in a world that ceaselessly makes itself up, to wake up to the world, to recognize the world, to be convinced that the world exists, to take revenge on the world for not existing. From Communal Nude. Since cofounding San Francisco's influential New Narrative circle in 1979, Robert Gluck has been one of America's finest prose stylists of innovative fiction, bending narrative into the service of autobiography, politics, and gay writing. This collection brings together for the first time Gluck's nonfiction, a revelatory body of work that anchors his writing practice. Gluck's essays explore the ways that storytelling and selfhood are mutually embedded cultural forms cohering a fractured social reality where generating narrative means generating identity, means generating community. I'd laugh at making art from any version of self, Gluck writes. I write about these forms that are myself to dispense with them, to demonstrate how they disintegrate before the world, the body. For any body or text to know itself, it must first see how it sees the world and understand itself as writing. Gluck's essays affirm this radical narratorial precept in rich spirals of reading, self-reflection, anecdote, escapade, and metatext. These texts span the author's career and his creative affinities from lost manifestos theorizing the poetics of New Narrative to encomia for literary and philosophic muses, Kathy Acker, the HOW ever poets Frank O'Hara, Georges Bataille, and others, to narrative journalism, book reviews, criticism, and public talks. Many of the texts are culled from obscure little magazines and ephemeral online sources; others have never been published. As lucid as story, as lush as theory, and as irresistible as gossip, Gluck's essays are the quintessence of New Narrative theory in practice. History of Photography Laurent Roosen, Luc Salu, 1989-01-01
