Education In Louisiana The Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Series In Louisiana History:

The Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Series in Louisiana History University of Southwestern Louisiana. Center for Louisiana Studies, 2005 Louisiana History Florence M. Jumonville, 2002-08-30 From the accounts of 18th century travelers to the interpretations of 21st century historians Jumonville lists more than 6 800 books chapters articles theses dissertations and government documents that describe the rich history of America s 18th state Here are references to sources on the Louisiana Purchase the Battle of New Orleans Carnival and Cajuns Less explored topics such as the rebellion of 1768 the changing roles of women and civic development are also covered It is a sweeping guide to the publications that best illuminate the land the people and the multifaceted history of the Pelican State Arranged according to discipline and time period chapters cover such topics as the environment the Civil War and Reconstruction social and cultural history the people of Louisiana local parish and sectional histories and New Orleans It also lists major historical sites and repositories of primary materials As the only comprehensive bibliography of the secondary sources about the state Louisiana History R is an invaluable resource for scholars and researchers

Schooling in the Antebellum South Sarah L. Hyde, 2016-10-19 In Schooling in the Antebellum South Sarah L Hyde analyzes educational development in the Gulf South before the Civil War not only revealing a thriving private and public education system but also offering insight into the worldview and aspirations of the people inhabiting the region While historians have tended to emphasize that much of the antebellum South had no public school system and offered education only to elites in private institutions Hyde s work suggests a different pattern of development in Louisiana Mississippi and Alabama where citizens actually worked to extend schooling across the region As a result students learned in a variety of settings in their own homes with a family member or hired tutor at private or parochial schools and in public free schools Regardless of the venue Hyde shows that the ubiquity of learning in the region proves how highly southerners valued education As early as the 1820s and 1830s legislators in these states sought to increase access to education for less wealthy residents through financial assistance to private schools Urban governments in the region were the first to acquiesce to voters demands establishing public schools in New Orleans Natchez and Mobile The success of these schools led residents in rural areas to lobby their local legislatures for similar opportunities Despite an economic downturn in the late 1830s that limited legislative appropriations for education the economic recovery of the 1840s ushered in a new era of educational progress The return of prosperity Hyde suggests coincided with the maturation of Jacksonian democracy a political philosophy that led southerners to demand access to privileges formerly reserved for the elite including schooling Hyde explains that while Jacksonian ideology inspired voters to lobby for schools the value southerners placed on learning was rooted in republicanism they believed a representative democracy needed an educated populace to survive Consequently by 1860 all three states had established statewide public school systems Schooling in the Antebellum South successfully challenges the conventional wisdom that an elitist educational system prevailed in the South and adds historical depth to an understanding of the value placed on public schooling in the region Educating the Sons of Sugar R. Eric Platt, 2017-10-10

A study of Louisiana French Creole sugar planters' role in higher education and a detailed history of the only college ever constructed to serve the sugar elite. The education of individual planter classes (cotton, tobacco, sugar) is rarely treated in works of southern history. Of the existing literature, higher education is typically relegated to a footnote providing only brief glimpses into a complex instructional regime responsive to wealthy planters. R. Eric Platt's Educating the Sons of Sugar allows for a greater focus on the mindset of French Creole sugar planters and provides a comprehensive record and analysis of a private college supported by planter wealth. Jefferson College was founded in St. James Parish in 1831, surrounded by slave-holding plantations and their cash crop, sugar cane. Creole planters, regionally known as the ancienne population, designed the college to impart a genteel liberal arts education through instruction in architecture and geography. Jefferson College played host to social class rivalries. Creole, Anglo-American, and French immigrant mirrored the revival of Catholicism in a region typified by secular mores. It was subject to the Americanization of south Louisiana higher education and reflected the ancienne population's decline as Louisiana's ruling population. Resulting from loss of funds, the college closed in 1848. It opened and closed three more times under varying administrations: French immigrant private sugar planter and Catholic Marist, before its final closure in 1927 due to educational competition, curricular intransigence, and the 1927 Mississippi River flood. In 1931, the campus was purchased by the Society of Jesus (Jesuits) and reopened as a silent religious retreat. It continues to function to this day as the Manresa House of Retreats. While in existence, Jefferson College was a social thermometer for the white French Creole sugar planter ethos that instilled the sons of sugar with a cultural heritage resonant of a region typified by the management of plantations, slavery, and the production of sugar.

What We Stand to Lose Kristen Buras, 2025-07-29

Spotlights the tireless work of Black teachers in a historic New Orleans public school, one of countless public schools now part of a school closing crisis in cities nationwide. Time and again, teachers of color have been blamed for every conceivable wrong in urban schools, a tactic that ignores the history of racism and bolsters the expansion of charter schools that lack community roots. Covering the rich fifty-year legacy of George Washington Carver Senior High School from 1958 to 2005, What We Stand to Lose investigates how public school closures have impacted predominantly Black urban neighborhoods in New Orleans. This institutional history demonstrates the cultural value of school communities over time, including the ways they have navigated and excelled despite racism and state neglect. Through oral history, interviewing, and archival research, antiracist organizer and author Kristen Buras offers an in-depth look into counterstories that oppose white majoritarian allegations of school failure. She conducted oral history interviews with more than 30 Carver alumni and teachers, unveiling the intergenerational culture that nurtured self-determination and an abiding sense of community in the face of endemic racism. In turn, Buras demonstrates Black teachers' invaluable and often unrecognized contributions. In compelling detail, Buras highlights the dire consequences of school closings, illuminating why the assault on veteran teachers and the communities they have fostered is the civil rights issue of our era

Ownership Paradigms in American Civil Law Jurisdictions Agustín Parise, 2017-01-16 In Ownership Paradigms in American Civil Law Jurisdictions Agustín Parise assists in identifying the transformations experienced in the legislation dealing with ownership in the Americas thereby showing that current understandings are not uncontested dogmas This book is the result of research undertaken on both sides of the Atlantic and covers the 16th to 20th centuries Agustín Parise offers readers a journey across time and space by studying three American civil law jurisdictions in three successive time periods His book first highlights the added value that comparative legal historical studies may bring to Europe and the Americas It then addresses in chronological order the three ownership paradigms i e Allocation Liberal and Social Function that he claims have developed in the Americas

Charter Schools, Race, and Urban Space Kristen L. Buras, 2014-07-17 Charter schools have been promoted as an equitable and innovative solution to the problems plaguing urban schools Advocates claim that charter schools benefit working class students of color by offering them access to a portfolio of school choices In Charter Schools Race and Urban Space Kristen Buras presents a very different account Her case study of New Orleans where veteran teachers were fired en masse and the nation's first all charter school district was developed shows that such reform is less about the needs of racially oppressed communities and more about the production of an urban space economy in which white entrepreneurs capitalize on black children and neighborhoods In this revealing book Buras draws on critical theories of race political economy and space as well as a decade of research on the ground to expose the criminal dispossession of black teachers and students who have contributed to New Orleans culture and history Mapping federal state and local policy networks she shows how the city's landscape has been reshaped by a strategic venture to privatize public education She likewise chronicles grassroots efforts to defend historic schools and neighborhoods against this assault revealing a commitment to equity and place and articulating a vision of change that is sure to inspire heated debate among communities nationwide

A Kingdom of Water J. Daniel d'Oney, 2020-04-01 A Kingdom of Water is a study of how the United Houma Nation in Louisiana successfully navigated a changing series of political and social landscapes under French Spanish British and American imperial control between 1699 and 2005 After 1699 the Houma assimilated the French into their preexisting social and economic networks and played a vital role in the early history of Louisiana After 1763 and Gallic retreat both the British and Spanish laid claim to tribal homelands and the Houma cleverly played one empire against the other In the early 1700s the Houma began a series of adaptive relocations and just before the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 the nation began their last migration a journey down Bayou Lafourche In the early 1800s as settlers pushed the nation farther down bayous and into the marshes of southeastern Louisiana the Houma quickly adapted to their new physical environment After the Civil War and consequent restructuring of class systems the Houma found themselves caught in a three tiered system of segregation Realizing that education was one way to retain lands constantly under assault from trappers and oil companies the Houma began their first attempt to integrate Terrebonne Parish schools in the early twentieth century though their situation was not resolved until five decades later In the early twenty first century the tribe is still fighting for federal recognition Louisiana History ,2008 The Story of French New Orleans Dianne Guenin-Lelle,2016-02-04 What is it about the city of New Orleans History location and culture continue to link it to France while distancing it culturally and symbolically from the United States This book explores the traces of French language history and artistic expression that have been present there over the last three hundred years This volume focuses on the French Spanish and American colonial periods to understand the imprint that French socio cultural dynamic left on the Crescent City The migration of Acadians to New Orleans at the time the city became a Spanish dominion and the arrival of Haitian refugees when the city became an American territory oddly reinforced its Francophone identity However in the process of establishing itself as an urban space in the Antebellum South the culture of New Orleans became a liability for New Orleans elite after the Louisiana Purchase New Orleans and the Caribbean share numerous historical cultural and linguistic connections The book analyzes these connections and the shared process of creolization occurring in New Orleans and throughout the Caribbean Basin It suggests French New Orleans might be understood as a trope for unscripted original Creole social and cultural elements Since being Creole came to connote African descent the study suggests that an association with France in the minds of whites allowed for a less racially bound and contested social order within the United States From the Grassroots to the Supreme Court Peter F. Lau,2004-12-07 Combines legal and historical analysis to address the implications of Brown v Board of Education showing that the resolution of racial segregation in schools transformed the lives of ordinary citizens in broader ways than has previously been ass

A History of the Catholic Church in the American South James M. Woods, 2011 No Christian denomination has had a longer or more varied existence in the American South than the Catholic Church The Spanish missions established in Florida and Texas promoted Catholicism Catholicism was the dominant religion among the French who settled in Louisiana Prior to the influx of Irish immigrants in the 1840s most American Catholics lived south of the Mason Dixon line Anti Catholic prejudice was never as strong in the South as in the North or Midwest and was rare in the region before the twentieth century James Woods's sweeping history stretches from the first European settlement of the continent through the end of the Spanish American War The book is divided into three distinct sections the colonial era the early Republic through the annexation of Texas in 1845 and the stormy latter half of the nineteenth century
