Education Of Urban Populations:

Urban Education Karen Symms Gallagher, Rodney Goodyear, Dominic Brewer, Robert Rueda, 2013-03-19 Many factors complicate the education of urban students Among them have been issues related to population density racial ethnic cultural and linguistic diversity poverty racism individual and institutional and funding levels Although urban educators have been addressing these issues for decades placing them under the umbrella of urban education and treating them as a specific area of practice and inquiry is relatively recent Despite the wide adoption of the term a consensus about its meaning exists at only the broadest of levels In short urban education remains an ill defined concept This comprehensive volume addresses this definitional challenge and provides a 3 part conceptual model in which the achievement of equity for all regardless of race gender or ethnicity is an ideal that is central to urban education The model also posits that effective urban education requires attention to the three central issues that confronts all education systems a accountability of individuals and the institutions in which they work b leadership which occurs in multiple ways and at multiple levels and c learning which is the raison d tre of education Just as a three legged stool would fall if any one leg were weak or missing each of these areas is essential to effective urban education and affects the others The Education of Urban Populations Abraham

Verdugo,2018-09-28 This monograph examines changes in the American public school population from 1900 to 2010 It shows how different historical periods have affected the composition of the student body and have posed important challenges to those involved in shaping educational policy The author first develops an analytical framework that merges education and applied demography concepts The education concepts include attendance promotion retention high school graduation and college enrollment While the applied demography concepts take into account size distribution and composition He then applies this framework to the four most recent American historical periods the Progressive Era the Great Depression the Post WWII Era and the Post 1983 Era Readers will come to understand the changing socio demographic profile of American schools due to such factors as immigration from Europe child labor laws internal migration greater fertility and the rise of the Baby Boom generation the changing status of women and minorities the urban crises rising social inequality the 2008 recession and globalization Featuring both historical and current data this volume clearly shows how demographic change affects the teaching and learning environment education policy funding and school segregation Overall it offers insightful analysis that may help shape the future of American education     The Education of Urban Population Abraham Alexander Bernstein,1967

Educating Urban Population Marilyn Gittell,1967     Higher Education in the BRICS Countries Simon

Schwartzman, Rómulo Pinheiro, Pundy Pillay, 2015-03-24 In spite of the increasing attention attributed to the rise in prominence of the BRICS Brazil Russia India China and South Africa countries few studies have looked at the ways in which broader social expectations with respect to the role of higher education across the BRICS have changed or not in recent years Our point of departure is that contrary to the conventional wisdom focusing on functionalistic perspectives higher education systems are not just designed by governments to fulfill certain functions but have a tendency for evolving in a rather unpredictable fashion as a result of the complex interplay between a number of internal and external factors In reality national higher education systems develop and change according to a complex process that encompasses the expectations of governmental agencies markets the aspirations of the population for the benefits of education the specific institutional traditions and cultures of higher education institutions and increasingly so the interests and strategies of the private firms entering and offering services in the higher education market This basically means that it is of outmost importance to move away from conceiving of universities or higher education as single monolithic actors or sector One way of doing this is by investigating a selected number of distinct but nonetheless interrelated factors or drivers which taken together help determine the nature and scope of the social compact between higher education its core actors and institutions and society at large government industry local communities professional associations
