A New Education for a New Economy: From Human Capital to Human Flourishing Tal Gilead,2024-06-03 Providing an in depth novel analysis of education s role in today s economy by scrutinizing its theoretical underpinnings this volume critiques the suitability of the current dominant economic framework for education and for shaping educational policymaking worldwide Critically examining the history and philosophy that underpin our present societal understanding of the link between economics and education the book argues for an urgent redefining of education's role in the economy based on intellectual foundations that significantly differ from our current dominant conceptions. Across seven chapters the book posits that the adoption of a new philosophical framework, the reshaping of economic and educational aims and the adjustment of our educational system are each necessary to better promote human flourishing. Ultimately providing a platform to entirely reconsider the idea that the primary aim of education is to serve the economic system, in particular economic growth, this book will appeal to scholars, researchers and postgraduate students studying educational policy, the philosophy of education and the history of education more broadly. Economization of Education Joel Spring, 2015-03-27 In this timely cogent analysis of trends and powerful forces shaping global educational policy today, Joel Spring focuses on how economization is making economic growth and increased productivity the main goals of schools and the ways these goals are achieved, including measuring educational policies by their costs and economic benefits, shaping family life to ensure productive workers and high achieving students, introducing entrepreneurship education into curricula from preschool through higher education and increasing the involvement of economists in educational policy analysis. Close attention is given to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the World Bank, the World Economic Forum and multinational corporations which as advocates of economization want schools to focus on teaching hard and soft skills needed by the global labor market. Economization raises questions about the effects of economically driven agendas for schools. Will education policies advocated by global organizations and multinational businesses corporatize and standardize human personalities and families? What type of global worker is being sought by global organizations and multinational corporations? What education programs are supported to educate the ideal global worker? What is the ideal family life for economic growth and development? Detailing and analyzing the politics and motivations driving economization, the book concludes with an assessment of the impacts of the confluence of business interests, economic theories, governments and educators.
