

Chapter 6

Educational Research and Policy¹

Abstract This chapter touches on some of the issues discussed in Chap. XX in the context of educational research and practice, but here it is concerned with the relationship between educational research and policy and, more specifically, with the sort of knowledge which can and should inform educational policy. The chapter treats this as an epistemological question and distinguishes it from the more extensively explored question of what sort of knowledge in what form policymakers do in fact commonly take into account.

The chapter examines the logical and rhetorical character of policy and the components of policy decisions, and argues that policy demands a much wider range of information than research typically provides. Either the research task or commission has to be substantially extended or the gap will be filled by information or thinking which is not derived from research.

One of the gaps between research of an empirical kind and policy is the normative gap. The final section of this chapter points to the inescapably normative character of educational policy. Of course the values which inform policy can be investigated empirically or deconstructed through discourse analysis, but this kind of inquiry cannot tell us what we should do. There is, however, a role for research/scholarship and more, rather than less, intelligent and critical argumentation in addressing these normative questions, as well as the empirical questions which underpin policy.

This chapter might be read alongside Chap. XX on the role of the philosopher in policymaking.

¹ This chapter is mainly derived from a paper that I originally wrote with Michael Watts in the context of an Economics and Social Research Council Teaching and Learning Research Programme (ESRC TLRP). It was published first in a supplementary issue of the Journal of Philosophy of Education (2008) edited by Bridges, D., Smeyers, P., and Smith, R., and subsequently (2009) by Wiley Blackwell as Evidence-based education policy: What evidence? What basis? Whose policy? I am grateful to Michael Watts and to Wiley Blackwell for allowing me to draw substantially on this paper.

Educational Research Policy And The Press Research As News:

Education Research, Policy, and the Press Robert F. McNergney, 1992 Education Research and the Media Aspa Baroutsis, Stewart Riddle, Pat Thomson, 2018-12-07 Universities around the world now actively encourage academics to engage in public scholarship publishing in traditional and new media newspapers television radio blogs and social media Education Research and the Media addresses this situation using empirical and reflexive accounts to interrogate and advance the ways in which this shift is usually discussed Drawing on Australian and international scholars and contexts this edited collection probes the effects of these engagements Taken together the book offers new conceptualisations of the junctures and disjunctures of local national and transnational mediascapes in education research working across both traditional media and social media platforms The book takes as its starting point that traditional national media while still significant are now embedded in practices and discourses that transcend geographic and spatial boundaries Global media logics challenge the profitability and operations of media corporations as the production of news and information is paradoxically both democratised and fragmented There is a limited body of research about how this mediatised landscape impacts on public scholarship This is the first book in the field of education to systematically investigate this landscape using empirical examples and analysis as well as a range of theoretical and conceptual approaches News Media and the Neoliberal Privatization of Education Zane C. Wubbena, Derek R. Ford, Brad J. Porfilio, 2016-03-01 This edited volume contributes to a burgeoning field of critical scholarship on the news media and education This scholarship is based on an understanding that the news media has increasingly applied a neoliberal template that mediates knowledge and action about education This book calls into question what the public knows about education how the public is informed and whose interests are represented and ultimately served through the production and distribution of information by the news media about education The chapters comprising this volume serve to enlighten and call to action parents students educators academics and scholars activists and policymakers for social political and economic transformation Moreover as the neoliberal agenda in North America intensifies the chapters in this book help to deepen our understanding of the logics and processes of the neoliberal privatization of education and the accompanying social discourses that facilitate the reduction of social relations to a transaction in the marketplace The chapters examine the news media and the reproduction of neoliberal educational reforms A Nation at Risk Teach For America charter schools think tanks and PISA and resistance to neoliberal educational reforms online activism and radical Black press while also broadening our conceptual understanding of the marketization and mediatization of educational discourses Overall the book provides an in depth understanding of the neoliberal privatization of education by extending critical examinations to this underrepresented field of cultural production the news media coverage of education The contribution of this edited volume therefore helps to build an understanding of the contemporary dynamics of capital accumulation to inform public resistance for social transformation Media Literacy and

Media Education Research Methods Pierre Fastrez, Normand Landry, 2023-11-27 This handbook interrogates the foundations of media literacy and media education research from a methodological standpoint It provides a detailed illustrated overview of key methods used in the study of media literacy and media education Further it reveals the diversity of this research field and organizes this diversity by using three categories of investigation media practices educational initiatives and prescriptive discourses The book offers valuable reference points and tools for exploring the range of research methods used to study media literacy and media education and how these methods connect to epistemological stances theoretical frameworks and research questions It serves as a guide for researchers who wish to position themselves reflect on the methods they use or are considering using and compare and contrast them against alternative or complementary approaches After reading this book readers will be better able to identify and define the objects of study in media literacy and media education research the preferred ways of conducting investigations the phenomena issues and dimensions that these are likely to bring to light and the knowledge that they generate This comprehensive and up to date overview of the field of media literacy education research methods will be of great interest to scholars and students of education studies media studies media literacy cognitive science and communication studies Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 International license

Preventing Abuse and Neglect in the Lives of Children with Disabilities E. Paula Crowley, 2016-04-02 This book addresses the development of our understanding of the abuse and neglect in the lives of children with disabilities Disabilities in childhood uniquely dispose children for their abuse and neglect Additionally abuse and neglect dispose children for disabilities The care and education of children with disabilities requires unique knowledge and skills and so does the consideration of their abuse and neglect This book is based on data generated from an analysis of cases involving the abuse and neglect of children with disabilities as well as on an analysis of the data based literature in this area Readers are provided with analysis and reflection exercises throughout the text so that they may analyze and reflect on their own awareness of the abuse and neglect of children with disabilities Each chapter also contains a set of implications for research and practice The final chapter focuses directly on prevention Caregivers and professionals across disciplines will develop a new understanding of their roles in universal secondary and tertiary level prevention that is targeted focused data based and designed to prevent the abuse and neglect of children with disabilities in the first place

Schoolteachers in the News Kathryn Shine, Tom O'Donoghue, 2013-02-28 Research examining how schoolteachers have been represented in the news is scarce This is noteworthy given the recognition that the news media has an influential agenda setting function plays a pivotal role in shaping public opinion and can influence educational policy Indeed there is a view amongst some authorities that education policy and news media coverage are irrevocably interconnected Specifically in relation to newspapers research indicates that their coverage can be particularly influential in informing and influencing public debate and policy about a variety of educational issues Research has also been conducted on the reactions of teachers reporting that they perceive news media coverage as important in shaping public opinion and education policy as well as affecting their relationships with families friends and the community Teachers in various countries have also expressed frustration at what they have perceived as a negative focus in coverage Furthermore news media coverage has been seen to play a role to the decline in the status of teaching that has been documented by researchers from many developed countries over the past three decades It has been claimed that contemporary news media coverage has led to greater scrutiny and criticism of the teaching profession than ever before with educators increasingly having to explain and justify their work In addition to the widespread concern about the decline in the status of teaching many countries are experiencing ongoing teacher recruitment and retention problems Despite this very few studies have considered how schoolteachers and teaching as a profession are depicted in the news media Particularly scarce are investigations with a historical dimension This book helps fill the gap by examining the reporting in The West Australian newspaper one of the oldest newspapers in Australia and a daily publication since 1885 It is offered as a contribution towards rectifying the deficit in the corpus of work on how newspapers have depicted teachers and points the way towards one of a number of avenues of research that other scholars in the field could take for various contexts including different countries and time periods The specific aim of the study is to provide a historical analysis of The West Australian newspaper's representation of teachers over two decades To that end it examines the portrayal of teachers in its reporting of five major educational developments in the state of Western Australia that were the subject of sustained coverage at various times between 1987 and 2007 unit curriculum 1987 1989 industrial dispute 1995 standardised testing 1997 2001 teacher shortage 1997 2007 and outcomes based education 2005 2007 Although the study focused on The West Australian newspaper the topics chosen reflect the international trends and universal issues in education Each of the topics in the study is located within the broader context of related developments internationally and especially in the United States the United Kingdom and Australia Three key representations of teachers are identified negative representations sympathetic representations and positive representations The negative representations refer to coverage which is overtly critical of teachers such as reporting which condemns teachers for taking industrial action the sympathetic representations relate to reporting which typically presents teachers as stressed overburdened and powerless and the positive representations show teachers as valued by the community and devoted to their students and work The central argument of the study is that The West Australian's coverage was dominated by both negative and sympathetic representations of schoolteachers while positive representations were relatively rare Overall the coverage presented a less flattering image of teachers than that which emerges from the educational research literature yet it provided a more balanced presentation of teachers than the extremes of hero and villain which tend to dominate popular culture Its portrayal of teachers was generally consistent with that of other news media with a movement towards a more sympathetic treatment in recent reporting reflecting a trend also identified in contemporary British newspaper coverage Although the sympathetic coverage did recognize the challenges faced by teachers it consistently presented teaching as a profession in a negative light Across the coverage there was almost a total absence of voices defending teaching or presenting it as an attractive career option In addition comments of any type from individual teachers were rare Overall the book highlights the need for key media spokespeople in education politicians union representatives bureaucrats and academics to consider carefully the messages they want to send regarding teachers and teaching It also points to implications for journalism education and journalism practice This book should be read by those working in the fields of educational policy journalism education media studies and history of education internationally particularly those working in these fields in the United States Canada the United Kingdom Australia and New Zealand Resources in Education ,1994

,1925 Developing Future-ready Learners for a Global Age Suzanne S. Choo,Woon Chia Liu,Bee Leng Chua,2024-12-02 Suzanne S Choo Woon Chia Liu and Bee Leng Chua offer a dynamic look into the tripartite relationship between education research policy and practice that characterizes Singapore s changing education landscape Over the years Singapore has garnered increasing attention internationally for its world class education system Pushing back against the stereotypical notions of exam and teacher centric education in Asia the contributors to this volume discuss opportunities as well as challenges in Singapore's innovation towards constructivist critical culturally responsive and cosmopolitan forms of learning. Highlighting the pedagogical innovation and its context in Singapore's teacher education and schools, the authors bridge theory and practice by providing an understanding of innovative practices informed by key shifts in Singapore's education policies and the key conceptual principles informing these practices. More importantly, it provides on the ground empirical insights into the ways these innovative pedagogical practices are enacted in the classroom and in teacher education programmes. Each chapter provides an in-depth understanding of how these pedagogies are applied across various subject disciplines including guided problem solving in Mathematics, games based pedagogy in Science, multimodal literacies in language, ethical criticism in Literature, Nonlinear Pedagogy in Physical Education, multicultural approaches in music and dialogic pedagogy in drama among others. Balancing theoretical and empirical focus, this resourceful text will be of interest to students, researchers and practitioners in educational development, pedagogy and teacher education as well as policymakers across international fields in education.

The Image of Africa in Ghana's Press: The Influence of Global News Organisations
Michael Serwornoo, 2021-01-05. The Image of Africa in Ghana's Press is of high conceptual, theoretical and methodological quality. It gives a good overview of the literature and the state of the art in the fields tackled by the author. The originality of the book lies especially in its methodological approach. Prof. Guido Keel, Director of the Institute of Applied Media Studies, Zurich University of Applied Sciences. The Image of Africa in Ghana's Press is a comprehensive and highly analytical study of the impact of foreign news organisations on the creation of an image of Africa in its own press. Identifying a problematic focus on the Western media in previous studies of the African media image, Serwornoo uses the Ghanaian press as a case study to explore the effects of centuries of Afro-pessimistic discourse in the foreign press on the continent's self-description. This study brings together a number of theoretical approaches including newsworthiness, intermedia agenda setting, postcolonial theory and the hierarchy of influences to question the processes underpinning the creation of media content. It is particularly innovative in its application of the methodological frameworks of ethnographic content analysis and ethnographic interview techniques to unveil the perspectives of journalists and editors. The Image of Africa in Ghana's Press presents a vital contribution of the highest academic standard to the growing literature surrounding Afro-pessimism and postcolonial studies. It will be of great value to scientists in the field of journalism studies as well as researchers interested in the merging of journalism research, postcolonial studies and ethnography.
