Music for Children with Hearing Loss Lyn E.

Schraer-Joiner, 2014. Written by an expert in the field who is both a teacher and a teacher educator, this book is an in-depth and practical resource for educators and parents who wish to introduce music to children with hearing loss. Author Lyn Schraer-Joiner makes a compelling case for offering music education to children with hearing loss before presenting a series of important and up-to-date teaching strategies meant to inform their educational experience, including preparations for the classroom, communication strategies for parents and teaching staff, and tips on more specific or technical matters such as conducting musical audiograms. These resources provide a solid background for hands-on instructional materials such as music lessons, supplemental activities, educational resources, discussion points, and journal samples for the classroom and home. Schraer-Joiner goes to great lengths to offer detailed, purposeful suggestions for specific classroom settings such as general music, choral ensemble, and instrumental ensemble, as well as a set of recommended listening lessons that take this potential variety of settings into account. Furthermore, Schraer-Joiner provides suggestions for incorporating music into everyday activities and also presents an overview of recent research which reinforces the benefits of music upon social and emotional development, as well as speech and language development. Each chapter concludes with a section entitled "For Your Consideration" which features review questions, ideas, and instructional activities that teachers and parents can accomplish with deaf and hard-of-hearing children. The book's Kids Only online component provides deaf and hard-of-hearing children with descriptions of the many opportunities available to them in the arts, inspirational case studies, and stories, as well as important ideas and topics for deaf and hard-of-hearing children to consider discussing with their teachers, family members, and healthcare professionals that they work with. The message of this book is a powerful one, particularly in this day and age. As hearing aid and cochlear implant technologies improve and become increasingly widespread, all teachers, especially music teachers, should expect to see more deaf and hard-of-hearing children in their classrooms. Awareness and preparation are not only vital in aiding these children in the classroom but are in fact required of teachers by federal law. This book is a Communication Interventions with Deaf People, 2025-06-12. Communication Interventions with Deaf People concerns the application of spoken, signed, and written language interventions with deaf and hard of hearing children, young people, and adults. Exploring the work that speech and language therapists, pathologists, deaf language specialists, and other professionals carry out with deaf people, this volume extends beyond the classroom and provides clinical and real-life applications of learning and communication. Historically, communication interventions with deaf people have prioritized spoken language and considered it to be the most appropriate and normal accomplishment. However, this book begins with a deaf perspective on communication interventions where the multiple languages signed, spoken, and written of deaf people are valued equally, and this paradigm shift is reflected throughout the various chapters. With over forty contributors, the research and professional experience of experts working with deaf people across national borders is presented. Individual chapters describe the ways that services are delivered and detail different aspects of communication interventions, presenting the current evidence base and indicating areas where further research is needed.

Music as the Source of Learning A.S. Wisbey, 2012-12-06. The evidence grows daily that much learning failure results from undetected early childhood hearing problems. Gordon, 1977. This is because the child is deprived of the state of acute hearing sensitivity normally present at birth, which makes it possible to recognize the loudness levels and duration of each individual sound. This is how a child learns the significance of the slightest variations in the quality of each sound as he collects information from the environment through all his senses, and the meaning of these changes is experienced and understood. As a result of normal sensory experience and reaction with the environment the multisensory systems are used and developed Similarly the growth of the brain is stimulated to make possible the storage of information and to produce the biochemical state necessary to transmit and relate the sensory information so collected and stored Monckeberg and Prescott 1975 If the loudness level of sound is reduced so too is its impact In this form a baby's normal startle response to a sound which includes the flickering open of the eyes is rarely experienced This response of the eyes is a seeking out of a sound source The visual localizing of sound sources leading to the anticipation of their spatial position arises from the ability to hear the fine changes of pitch and loudness levels involved in movement
