GEEN CV Guidelines for Establishing Farm Forestry Accountancy Networks Niskanen, Sekot, 2001-05-09 The main aim of the these guidelines is to provide assistance for developing a generally applicable monitoring system for the assessment of the socio economic performance of farm forestry enterprises Because the adoption and use of monitoring systems and accounting networks are at different phases in different countries at the moment the guidelines do not aim for a fully standardised monitoring system at the European level Instead the guidelines were prepared to help to improve the base line of harmonisation for national and international development of farm forestry accounting The expected users of the guidelines include professionals working with the issues of socio economics of farm forestry as well as policy makers and forest economic researchers Also teachers and lecturers of forestry accounting in universities and other schools with forestry economic education may found the guidelines useful for their course programmes The content of the guidelines is planned to help particularly the planning and development of accounting networks under various conditions Chapter one shortly introduces the importance of farm forestry enterprises and the problems of monitoring their economic performance Chapter two discusses the definitions for farm forestry and prospects for extending EU Farm Accountancy Data Network EU FADN to forestry Chapters three and four demonstrate the problems of sampling and necessary organisational arrangements for creating a farm forestry accounting network respectively Chapters five six and seven form the core part of the guidelines including the accounting of monetary and non monetary information outline of a database system as well as the examples of the outputs that can be derived from the accounting system In chapter eight the prospects for international comparability and harmonisation are discussed The book ends finally with a summary chapter where major elements of the guidelines are summarised and practical implementation of the guidelines demonstrated Social Capital and Rural Development in the Knowledge Society Hans Westlund, Kiyoshi Kobayashi, 2013-01-01 This book by Westlund and Kobayashi emphasises the fact that the gap between urban and rural areas is no longer relevant today all places and regions are under a strong influence from cities The authors show in a straightforward way that the continuum between more and less urbanized places requires new types of regulations based on innovation and local skills and that rural policies cannot be based on agriculture only but primarily require the mobilization of local social capital links Andr Torre INRA Agroparistech Paris France Rural communities are not all resource dependent and very low density places Not all have people leaving in droves and no newcomers This book s theoretical arguments and case studies from five countries help one understand better the diversity of rural We find population gainers population losers newcomers and long term stayers together in sizable towns Aboriginal communities where out migration is limited The diversity is a key dimension in the analyses of public and private action to build and maintain social capital Roger E Bolton Williams College US This amazingly surprising book takes the popular topic of social capital and provocatively examines the contemporary rural development issue New social capital driven thinking and insights are applied globally from a conceptual frame and locally with examples The way forward for both urban and rural development is achieved when the variables that define social capital are simultaneously balanced around focused development objectives Examples show how a multidimensional view of social capital enables meaningful rural development Roger R Stough George Mason University US Social capital is often considered a key factor for local development This book analyzes the role of social capital for rural areas survival and development in the current age of metropolitan growth an era in which urban is the norm and where rural areas must adapt to this new situation and build innovative urban rural relations The traditional division between rural and urban is no longer valid in the knowledge society Instead of being a homogeneous unit based on primary sector production the countryside in the developed world increasingly consists of areas with very different development paths With examples from Europe Asia and America the book discusses building and renewal of rural social capital from both bottom up and top down perspectives and from the standpoint of business and both the public and private sectors Being the first book to treat social capital and rural development in the age of megacities and the knowledge economy it will be of great benefit to academics interested in social capital research and rural development Forests and
