An Edmund Dulac Treasury Edmund Dulac, 2011-06-16 Rooted in tales both ancient and modern these vibrant images date from the early twentieth century's Golden Age of Illustration Edmund Dulac a prominent artist of the period created them for books published between 1905 and 1928 Their moods range from the shadowy foreboding of Jane Eyre to the venturesome spirits of Treasure Island and the lighthearted fantasies of A Fairy Garland Other featured titles include Shakespeare's The Tempest The Arabian Nights The Rubiyat of Omar Khayyam and the fairy tales of Hans Christian Andersen French born Edmund Dulac arrived in London in 1904 when new advances in the printing process kindled a rage for picture books Dulac's imaginative powers and technical skills assured the popularity of his book illustrations many of which were sold separately as fine art paintings After World War I when the appetite for deluxe volumes waned the artist turned his talents in many new directions including portraiture theatrical costume and set design newspaper caricature and stamp design This retrospective of his early works is the only such anthology available offering a singular tribute to an artist from a halcyon era of art inspired by literature Dulac's Fairy Tale Illustrations in Full Color Edmund Dulac, 2013-07-02 These 55 masterworks by one of the most influential illustrators of children's books include exquisite images for The Sleeping Beauty Cinderella The Snow Queen The Real Princess and other beguiling tales Edmund Dulac, His Book Illustrations Ann Conolly Hughey, 1995 Edmund Dulac's Fairy-Book: Fairy Tales of the Allied Nations Edmund Dulac, 1916-01-01 The old wife sang merrily as she sat in the inglenook stirring the soup for she had never felt so sad Many many years had come and gone leaving the weight of their winters on her shoulders and the touch of snow on her hair without ever bringing her a little child This made her and her dear old husband very sad for there were many children outside playing in the snow It seemed hard that not even one among them was their very own But alas there was no hope for such a blessing now Never would they see a little fur cap hanging on the corner of the mantelpiece nor two little shoes drying by the fire The old husband brought in a bundle of wood and set it down Then as he heard the children laughing and clapping their hands outside he looked out at the window There they were dancing with glee round a snow man they had made He smiled as he saw that it was evidently meant to look like the Mayor of the village it was so fat and pompous Look Marusha he cried to the old wife Come and see the snow man they've made As they stood together at the window they laughed to see what fun the children got out of it Suddenly the old man turned to her with a bright idea Let's go out and see if we can't make a little snow man But Marusha laughed at him What would the neighbours say They would poke fun at us it'd be the joke of the village Besides we're too old to play like children But only a little one Marusha only a teeny weeny little snow man and I'll manage it that nobody sees us Well well she said laughing have your own way as you always did Youshko With this she took the pot from the fire put on her bonnet and they went out together As they passed the children they stopped to play with them a while for they now felt almost like children themselves Then they trudged on through the snow till they came to a clump of trees and behind this where the snow was nice and white and nobody could see them they set to work to make their little man The old husband insisted that it must be very small and the old wife agreed that it should be almost as small as a new born babe Kneeling down in the snow they fashioned the little body in next to no time Now there remained only the head to finish Two fat handfuls of snow for the cheeks and face and a big one on top for the head Then they put on a wee dab for the nose and poked two holes one on each side for the eyes

Edmund Dulac's Arabian Nights American Weekly Illustrations Albert Seligman,2025-01-12 In 1923 Edmund Dulac the Distinguished English Artist as he was billed on the front covers was contracted by the Hearst organization to paint watercolors for The American Weekly He illustrated thirteen different series with 106 watercolors from 1924 s Bible Scenes and Heroes through 1951 s Tales from the Arabian Nights The two series presented here are the 1925 Characters from the Arabian Nights and the 1951 Tales from the Arabian Nights The 1951 series was narrated by Watson Crewes the staff writer for The American Weekly We have included the stories with the cover illustration There were no stories in the 1925 series but the illustrations were all covered in the earlier book versions of The Arabian Nights which brought Dulac his initial recognition and early success The frontispiece for the series was Scheherazade which was also the frontispiece for his first Arabian Nights in 1907 This was his first Gift Book for his publisher Hodder Stoughton with 50 color illustrations mounted on heavy art paper at the rear of the book Sheherazade was of course the storyteller of all the 1001 stories in the Arabian Nights which took her over three years to recount to her husband the Sultan She is the daughter of the Grand Vizier and volunteered to marry the Sultan to stop him from carrying out his habit of murdering his new wife after their wedding night She began each story and stopped before the ending so that the Sultan would postpone her execution till the following day to hear the ending At the end of the three years he renounced his vile habit and they lived happily ever after The next illustration is the familiar Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp There are two more illustrations from this tale in this series Princess Badroulboudour and New Lamps for Old Aladdin was a young boy from China who lived with his mother His father had died recently when mysteriously his father s brother appeared to console the family who had never heard of him He tricked Aladdin into helping him find a magic lamp with a powerful Genie trapped inside But Aladdin managed to foil his plan and used the Genie to marry the Princess and build a beautiful palace where after a few mis adventures they lived happily ever after The Caliph Haroun Al Raschid was the Commander of the Faithful in Bagdad and was involved with several of the tales of the 1001 Nights He often would disguise himself and go wandering at night into the city to see and talk to his subjects The tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves was included in the 1907 edition and repeats here with different versions of the earlier drawings of Ali Baba and his slave girl Morgiana pouring hot oil in the jars where the forty thieves are hiding Here Ali Baba drives his mules with a contented smile probably as he returns home with sacks of the thieves gold And Morgiana has a beatific smile as she pours boiling oil on to the thieves who threaten the life of her master and herself The next illustration was mistakenly captioned by the editors at Hearst Here we see the Prince staring at a bird who holds a talisman in his beak This is not the story of the Talking Bird also known as The Three Sisters but the bird who led Prince Kemerezzeman astray from Princess Badoura as you will read in the 1951 series Sindbad the Sailor and the Roc is again a repeat of the illustration from the 1914 edition Here Sindbad in his second voyage ties himself to the leg of the gigantic Roc bird to be carried to where the diamonds are to be found The final illustration is The Enchanted Horse made of ivory and ebony which will fly through the air to any destination the rider desires Here the Prince mounts the magic horse and without yet knowing the secret of how to manipulate the flight takes off into the unknown to find his Princess and his fortune
