Education And Divine Revelation:

Education and Divine Revelation Herbert W. Byrne, 2003 From the Preface In recent years not a great deal of writing has been done in the field of Christian education theory This seems to be true for both liberal and conservative thinkers On the other hand an investigation of past writings will show some efforts on the part of educators in the field to find an integrating principle some kind of motif or centralizing principle which would serve as the foundation for theory and guide for practice An attempt was made in this work to summarize such efforts and to throw them into a comparative light with an orthodox and evangelical position in Christian education Thus the comparative format of the work would appear evident A search in the first sources of these positions will be indicated in the references Chapter One was devoted to the subject of the search for an integrating principle The current situation in the discipline itself in the literature and on the field was surveyed to point up the need for this principle Section Two of this chapter surveyed the various evidences from the history the scholars and practice on the field This showed who is grappling with this problem Section Three showed the sources utilized by various schools of thought and action The last section made an attempt to resolve this problem by pointing up the advantages offered by a revelational approach Chapter Two focused exclusively on the concept and guidelines provided to Christian education theory and practice by divine revelation The concept of revelation itself was defined The chapter concluded with a statement on the crucial role that epistemology has in developing any Christian education theory followed by a statement on an evangelical and biblical concept of revelation Chapter Three was designed to focus attention on the implications of divine revelation for building Christian education theory A discussion was provided on the need nature and demands for theory An effort was made to show the place that revelation has in theory development An evangelical position was compared to other theories and suggestions made whereby the construction of theory development An evangelical position was compared to other theories and suggestions made whereby the construction of theory could take place based on the premises of divine revelation The implications of such actions have for various types of Christian schools were indicated Chapter Four revealed the direct impact that divine revelation has on general Christian education and practice Definitions of the educational processes necessary to operate a Christian school were indicated Chapter Five gave attention to the implications that revelation has for institutional Christian education practice Suggestions were made in this chapter on how to utilize the principles of revelation in the local church Christian day schools Christian liberal arts colleges and the theological seminary A survey and comparative study of this nature makes it necessary to consult many sources For suggestions and contributions made the writer is grateful For permissions to use many quotations I am grateful For any mistakes and shortcomings I take full responsibility Herbert W Byrne Lectures on the Cumulative Evidences of Divine Revelation L. F. March Phillips, 1883 Regime and Education Ian Dagg, 2023-09-14 This volume is an inquiry into the history of political philosophy by way of the general theme of education Each contributor addresses the relationship between a particular political philosophers' broad teaching on the best political order and that political philosophers' teaching about education. The unifying contention of the work is that each political philosopher considered in the volume promotes a certain kind of political regime and therefore a particular mode of education essential to that regime. Each chapter written by a separate contributor is distinguished from the others primarily by the political philosopher being considered. The book has a chapter dedicated to each of the following political philosophers: Plato, Xenophon, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Bacon, Locke, Rousseau, Tocqueville, and Nietzsche. The volume provides a survey of educational models by some of the greatest thinkers of the West while continually demonstrating that the two themes of politics and education are inseparable. The Educational Theories of Herbart and Froebel John Angus Mac Vannel, 1905 Routledge Library Editions: Education and Religion

The 10 volumes in this set originally published between 1965 and 1994 draw together research by leading academics in the area of religious education and provides a rigorous examination of related key issues. The volumes examine the teaching of world faiths in schools, religious education in both primary and secondary schools, and the teaching of morality. This set will be of particular interest to students of Education and Religious Studies. On Education Harry Brighouse, 2006-05-02. What is education for? Should it produce workers or educate future citizens? Is there a place for faith schools, and should patriotism be taught? In this compelling and controversial book, Harry Brighouse takes on all these urgent questions and more. He argues that children share four fundamental interests: the ability to make their own judgements about what values to adopt; acquiring the skills that will enable them to become economically self-sufficient as adults; being exposed to a range of activities and experiences that will enable them to flourish in their personal lives; and developing a sense of justice. He criticises sharply those who place the interests of the economy before those of children and assesses the arguments for and against the controversial issues of faith schools and the teaching of patriotism. Clearly argued but provocative, On Education draws on recent examples from Britain and North America as well as famous thinkers on education such as Aristotle and John Locke. It is essential reading for anyone interested in the present state of education and its future.
