Natural Science Education, Indigenous Knowledge, and Sustainable Development in Rural and Urban Schools in Kenya Darren M. O'Hern,Yoshiko Nozaki,2014-05-05 Through a multi sited qualitative study of three Kenyan secondary schools in rural Taita Hills and urban Nairobi the volume explores the ways the dichotomy between Western and indigenous knowledge operates in Kenyan education In particular it examines views on natural sciences expressed by the students teachers the state s curricula documents and schools exam oriented pedagogical approaches O Hern and Nozaki question state and local education policies and practices as they relate to natural science subjects such as agriculture biology and geography and their dismissal of indigenous knowledge about environment nature and sustainable development They suggest the need to develop critical postcolonial curriculum policies and practices of science education to overcome knowledge oriented binaries emphasize sustainable development and address the problems of inequality the center and periphery divide and social cultural and environmental injustices in Kenya and by implication elsewhere In an era of environmental crisis and devastation education that supports sustainability and survival of our planet is needed Within a broader sociopolitical context of post colonialism and globalization this volume points out possibilities and challenges to achieve such an education The authors propose a critical postcolonial approach that acknowledges the contextual and situational production of all knowledge and that de dichotomizes indigenous from Western scientific knowledge Eric Rico Gutstein Professor Curriculum and Instruction University of Illinois at Chicago USA

Thus Until Emilia Ilieva,Reuben Matheka,2025-08-04 Thus Until A History of Egerton University is a thorough historical chronological and well researched account of Egerton University from a whites only college when it started in 1939 through to the expansion it has experienced over the years culminating in being a full university More than any other university in Kenya Egerton has a long and colourful history but like all the other universities it has suffered from the political economic and financial challenges of the time especially since the double intake of the 1990s Chapter One provides the required background to the study highlighting agricultural and educational policies and steering away from the Happy Valley hype so characteristic of the period The reader will learn about the Egerton family in Chapter Two and particularly about Lord Egerton himself and the colonial circumstances within which he lived The chapter dispels some of the popularly held myths about him Chapter Three deals with the beginnings of the college and the various structural and curriculum experiments tried out and the kind of enrolment and students it experimented with as an all white establishment The chapter ends with Africans beginning to agitate for change With great attention to detail the later chapters put the university in a broader local and international context thereby increasing its relevance to society A History of Egerton University though heavily footnoted and with a detailed bibliography is written in a simple easy flowing and accessible style
