which emigration has levelled off and to which immigration has become a significant economic issue Southern Europe is close to other regions where the pressure to emigrate is intense these regions have a high level of unemployment above the European Union average and a large informal sector often 15-25 per cent of their economies as a whole This book analyses the southern European migration case using an economic approach It combines a theoretical and an empirical approach on the fundamental migration issues the decision to migrate effects on the country of departure and country of destination and the effectiveness of policies in managing migration It also explores the transformation due to migration of southern European countries in the 1980s and 1990s

Bridging the Gaps Martin Ruhs, Kristof Tamas, Joakim Palme, 2019-03-28 What is the use of research in public debates and policy making on immigration and integration Why are there such large gaps between migration debates and migration realities and how can they be reduced Bridging the Gaps Linking Research to Public Debates and Policy Making on Migration and Integration provides a unique set of testimonies and analyses of these questions by researchers and policy experts who have been deeply involved in attempts to link social science research to public policies Bridging the Gaps argues that we must go beyond the prevailing focus on the research policy nexus by considering how the media public opinion and other dimensions of public debates can interact with research and policy processes The chapters provide theoretical analyses and personal assessments of the successes and failures of past efforts to link research to public debates and policy making on migration and integration in six different countries Germany the Netherlands Norway Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States as well as in European and global governance debates Contrary to common public perceptions and political demands Bridging the Gaps argues that all actors contributing to research public debates and policy making should recognize that migration integration and related decision making are highly complex issues and that there are no quick fixes to what are often enduring policy dilemmas When the different actors understand and appreciate each other s primary aims and constraints such common understandings can pave the way for improved policy making processes and better public policies that deal more effectively with the real challenges of migration and integration

The Crisis of Multiculturalism in Europe Rita Chin,2019-06-11 From the influx of immigrants in the 1950s to contemporary worries about refugees and terrorism The Crisis of Multiculturalism in Europe examines the historical development of multiculturalism on the Continent Rita Chin argues that there were few efforts to institute state sponsored policies of multiculturalism and those that emerged were pronounced failures virtually from their inception She shows that today s crisis of support for cultural pluralism isn t new but actually has its roots in the 1980s Chin looks at the touchstones of European multiculturalism from the urgent need for laborers after World War II to the public furor over the publication of The Satanic Verses and the question of French girls wearing headscarves to school While many Muslim immigrants had lived in Europe for decades in the 1980s they came to be defined by their religion and the public s preoccupation with gender relations Acceptance of sexual equality became the critical gauge of Muslims compatibility with Western values The convergence of left and right around the defense of such personal freedoms against a putatively illiberal Islam has threatened to undermine commitment to pluralism as a core ideal Chin contends that renouncing the principles of diversity brings social costs particularly for the left and she considers how Europe might construct an effective political engagement with its varied population Publisher web site
