European Proto Industrialization An Introductory Handbook:

European Proto-Industrialization Sheilagh Ogilvie, Markus Cerman, 1996-02-23 This collection of essays provides an up to date introduction to proto industrialization the growth of export oriented domestic industries which took place all over Europe between about 1500 and 1800 Often these industries expanded alongside agriculture without advanced technology or centralized factories Since the 1970s numerous theories have been proposed arguing that proto industrialization transformed demographic behaviour social structure and traditional institutions and was a major cause of capitalism and factory industrialization European proto industrialization summarizes the theories and criticisms and includes a reconsideration of the original theories and chapters written by experts on different European countries It provides an essential guide to an important yet often confusing field of economic and social history

The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History, 1350-1750 Hamish Scott, 2015-07-23 This Handbook re examines the concept of early modern history in a European and global context The term early modern has been familiar especially in Anglophone scholarship for four decades and is securely established in teaching research and scholarly publishing More recently however the unity implied in the notion has fragmented while the usefulness and even the validity of the term and the historical periodisation which it incorporates have been questioned The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History 1350 1750 provides an account of the development of the subject during the past half century but primarily offers an integrated and comprehensive survey of present knowledge together with some suggestions as to how the field is developing It aims both to interrogate the notion of early modernity itself and to survey early modern Europe as an established field of study The overriding aim will be to establish that early modern is not simply a chronological label but possesses a substantive integrity Volume I examines Peoples and Place assessing structural factors such as climate printing and the revolution in information social and economic developments and religion including chapters on Orthodoxy Judaism and Islam

Globalization in State Socialist East Central Europe Béla Tomka, 2024-07-20 This open access Palgrave Pivot explores four major aspects of globalization foreign trade capital and information flows and the movement of people The book examines how the state socialist countries of East Central Europe fit into the general trend of globalization after WWII It focuses on three specific countries in the region Poland Czechoslovakia and Hungary The study also considers conceptual problems whether recently introduced terms such as alternative globalization and socialist proto globalization are plausible for interpreting state socialist globalization Special attention is paid to the study of continuities and discontinuities in the process of globalization in East Central Europe which is a key issue in current debates This requires a long term perspective so the study covers not only the decades before 1989 but also subsequent developments In doing so the book attempts to find a balance between old and new mainstream interpretations it recognises that East Central European societies experienced considerable globalization during the state socialist era however based on empirical findings instead of alternative or proto globalization the book suggests other notions to conceptualise this process including fragmentation selectivity and unevenness Thus the proposed understanding could also contribute to discussions on globalization beyond East Central Europe

Refashioning the Renaissance Paula Hohti, 2025-01-28 How did ordinary men and women dress in early modern Europe What fabrics and garments formed the essential elements of fashion for artisans and shopkeepers Did they rely on affordable alternatives to the silks jewellery and decorations favoured by the wealthy elite Or did those with modest means find innovative ways to express their fashion sense This book provides new perspectives on early modern clothing and fashion history by investigating the consumption and meaning of fashionable clothing and accessories among the popular classes Through a close examination of the materials craftsmanship and cultural significance of fashion items owned by and available to a broad group of consumers it challenges conventional assumptions that the everyday dress of ordinary families was limited to a narrow selection of garments made of coarse textiles often produced at home and resistant to change

Racism in Contemporary Germany Ivan Kalmar, Nitzan Shoshan, 2022-06-23 This book presents a critical and empirically informed examination of Islamophobia and related issues of racism and nationalism in Germany today with particular attention to the East West distinction The authors representing several disciplines such as anthropology sociology and media and literary studies situate the topic in the global and German context of the 2015 16 migration crisis and its aftermath and of the ongoing transformations seen in the postsocialist regions of the European Union Since the 2015 16 refugee crisis illiberal leaders and parties within Europe have instrumentalized Islamophobia in an attempt to dislodge the traditional political elites Strikingly such illiberal movements have been most successful in the formerly socialist areas of the EU This is mirrored within Germany itself where political formations with an Islamophobic agenda remain more popular in the East than in the West This volume examines the reasons for this difference including not only the ideological heritage of Soviet dominated socialism but also the effects of western interventions in the formerly socialist areas in and beyond Germany since the end of the Cold War Some Islamophobic and other hateful tendencies were in fact introduced from and continue to prosper also in the West The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Contemporary European Studies

Bin Wong,2019-01-15 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press s Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more Scholarly discussions on economic development in history specifically those linked to industrialization or modern economic growth have paid great attention to the formation and development of the market economy as a set of institutions able to augment people s welfare The role of specific nonmarket practices for promoting the economic development and welfare has been a distinct concern typically involving discussion of the state's economic policies. How have societies tackled those issues that the market did not? To what extent did those solutions reflect the structure of an economy? Public Goods Provision in the Early Modern Economy explores these questions by investigating efforts made for the provision of public goods in early modern economies from the perspective of Japanese socioeconomic history during the Tokugawa era (1603-1868) and by comparing those cases with others from Europe and China's economic history. The contributors focus on three areas of inquiry: early modern era welfare policies for the poor, infrastructure and forest management to provide both a unique perspective on Japanese public finance at local levels and a vantage point outside of Europe to encourage a more global view of early modern political economies that shaped subsequent modern transformations.

Making Of An Economic Superpower, The: Unlocking China's Secret Of Rapid Industrialization Yi Wen, 2016-05-13. The rise of China is no doubt one of the most important events in world economic history since the Industrial Revolution. Mainstream economics, especially the institutional theory of economic development based on a dichotomy of extractive vs. inclusive political institutions, is highly inadequate in explaining China's rise. This book argues that only a radical reinterpretation of the history of the Industrial Revolution and the rise of the West, as incorrectly portrayed by the institutional theory, can fully explain China's growth miracle and why the determined rise of China is unstoppable despite its current backward financial system and political institutions. Conversely, China's spectacular and rapid transformation from an impoverished agrarian society to a formidable industrial superpower sheds considerable light on the fundamental shortcomings of the institutional theory and mainstream blackboard economic models and provides more accurate reevaluations of historical episodes such as Africa's enduring poverty trap despite radical political and economic reforms, Latin America's lost decades and frequent debt crises, 19th century Europe's great escape from the Malthusian trap, and the Industrial Revolution itself.

Migrations and Belongings Dirk Hoerder, 2014-04-21. Migrations and Belongings traces burgeoning population flows across several continents from 1870 to 1945 and explains the variables involved and the processes of acculturation by which belonging takes shape. Migration, it shows, is both a critique of unsatisfactory conditions in one society and a contribution of human capital to another.

The Future of Consumer Society Maurie J. Cohen, 2017. Shows how consumer society is changing due to demographic ageing, rising income inequality, political paralysis, resource scarcity, and steady jobs being replaced by freelancing. It examines how people are striving to find new ways to ensure livelihoods and the role that worker consumer cooperatives could play.

What is Early Modern History? Merry E. Wiesner-Hanks, 2021-01-20. What is Early Modern History offers a concise guide to investigations of the era from the fifteenth to eighteenth centuries and an entry point to larger questions about how we divide and organize the past and how the discipline of history has evolved. Merry Wiesner Hanks showcases the new research and innovative methods that have altered our understanding of this fascinating period. She examines various subfields and approaches in early modern history and the marks of modernity that scholars have highlighted in these, from individualism to the Little Ice Age. Moving beyond Europe, she surveys the growth of the Atlantic World and global history, exploring key topics such as the Columbian Exchange, the slave trade, cultural interactions, and blending, and the environment. She also considers popular and public representations of the early modern period, which are often how students and others first become curious. Elegantly written and passionately argued, What is Early Modern History provides an essential invitation to the field for both students and scholars.

The Smoke of London William M. Cavert, 2016-04-07. The Smoke of London uncovers the origins of urban air pollution two centuries before the industrial revolution. By 1600, London was a fossil-fuelled city; its high-sulfur coal, a basic necessity for the poor and a source of cheap energy for its growing manufacturing sector. The resulting smoke was foul and dangerous throughout the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, leading to challenges in court suppression. By the crown doctors' attempts to understand the nature of good air, increasing suburbanization, and changing representations of urban life in poetry and on the London stage, neither a celebratory account of proto-environmentalism nor a declensionist narrative of degradation. The Smoke of London recovers the seriousness of pre-modern environmental concerns even as it explains their limits and failures. Ultimately, Londoners learned to live with their dirty air, an accommodation that reframes the modern process of urbanization and industrial pollution both in Britain and beyond.

Maps of Time David Christian, 2011-09. Introducing a novel perspective on the study of history, David Christian views the interaction of the natural world with the more recent arrivals in flora, fauna, including human beings.
