European Studies and Europe: Twenty Years of Euroculture Janny de Jong, Marek Neuman, Senka Neuman Stanivuković, Margriet van der Waal, 2020 In 1998 the Master's programme Euroculture started with the aim to offer amid the many existing programmes that focused on European institutional developments a European studies curriculum that puts the interplay of culture society and politics in Europe at the heart of the curriculum Among other topics the programme focused on how Europe and European integration could be contextualised and what these concepts meant to European citizens In June 2018 Euroculture celebrated its twentieth anniversary with a conference to discuss not only the changes within the MA Euroculture itself but also to reflect upon the changes in the field of European studies over the last two decades writ large This volume brings together the main findings of this conference Since its start Euroculture has engaged with European studies by providing a space for cooperation between more mainstream oriented research on the one hand and a variety of sociological historiographical post structuralist and post colonial perspectives on Europe on the other This has enabled Euroculture to contextualise the emergence and development of European institutions historically and in relation to broader socio political and cultural processes Its methodology that treats theoretical and analytical work classroom teaching and engaged practice as integral parts of critical inquiry has significantly contributed to its ability to continuously enhance scholarly discussions The volume is divided into two parts which are intrinsically linked The first part contains reflections on the field of European studies and on concepts analytical perspectives and methodologies that have emerged through interdisciplinary dialogues in Euroculture European studies The second part contains contributions that reflect upon the Euroculture programme itself discussing both changes and continuities in the curriculum and didactic methods outlining possible venues for further developing the educational and research programme that is firmly embedded in a network of partners that have been closely cooperating over a span of no less than two decades The Routledge Handbook of Critical European Studies Didier Bigo, Thomas Diez, Evangelos Fanoulis, Ben Rosamond, Yannis A. European Regulation of Medical Devices and Pharmaceuticals Nupur Chowdhury, 2014-04-29 One of the primary functions of law is to ensure that the legal structure governing all social relations is predictable coherent consistent and applicable Taken together these characteristics of law are referred to as legal certainty In traditional approaches to legal certainty law is regarded as a hierarchical system of rules characterized by stability clarity uniformity calculable enforcement publicity and predictability However the current reality is that national

legal systems no longer operate in isolation but within a multilevel legal order wherein norms created at both the international and regional level are directly applicable to national legal systems Also norm creation is no longer the exclusive prerogative of public officials of the state private actors have an increasing influence on norm creation as well Social scientists have referred to this phenomenon of interacting and overlapping competences as multilevel governance Only recently have legal scholars focused attention on the increasing interconnectedness and therefore the concomitant loss of primacy of national legal orders between the global European and national regulatory spheres through the concept of multilevel regulation In this project the author uses multilevel regulation as a term to characterize a regulatory space in which the process of rule making rule enforcement and rule adjudication the regulatory lifecycle is dispersed across more than one administrative or territorial level and amongst several different actors both public and private The author draws on the concept of a regulatory space using it as a framing device to differentiate between specific aspects of policy fields The relationship between actors in such a space is non hierarchical and they may be independent of each other The lack of central ordering of the regulatory lifecycle within this regulatory space is the most important feature of such a space The implications of multilevel regulation for the notion of legal certainty have attracted limited attention from scholars and the demand for legal certainty in regulatory practice is still a puzzle The book explores the idea of legal certainty in terms of the perceptions and expectations of regulatees in the context of medical products specifically pharmaceuticals and medical devices which can be differentiated as two regulatory spaces and therefore form two case studies As an exploratory project the book necessarily explores new territory in terms of investigating legal certainty first in terms of regulatee perceptions and expectations and second because it studies it in the context of multilevel regulation

Facts and Hopes in Thrombolysis in Acute Myocardial Infarction S. Effert,2013-06-29 It was a great pleasure for us to welcome so many experts from all over the world to our symposium in Aachen We are also pleased and you can attribute this to my own vanity with the success and acceptance of the concept of myocardial reperfusion and revascularization specifically selective intracoronary lysis followed either by PTCA or bypass surgery which we have been pursuing since 1979 But after the dramatic immediate effects of the first attempts which you have to experience yourself we did not expect it to be any different We decided against performing a randomized study in which every patient is catheterized and thrombolytic therapy only given to some of the patients for which we have been criticized at times At the previous symposium in Aachen in 1983 on the topic of thrombolysis for acute myocardial infarction in the final session several speakers were asked directly about this topic and replied that if they were patients they would not want to be randomized into the placebo group In the meantime positive results from large randomized studies have been recorded which are presented in this volume I mention in particular the Western Washington Study from Dr Kennedy and the Interuniversity Study in Holland Aachen a relatively small city with 250 000 inhabitants provided the opportunity to treat a relatively large patient population with acute myocardial infarction
