European Union And Developing Countries:

The European Union and the South Marjorie Lister,1997 Describes the evolution of the European Union's relations with developing countries The European Union and Developing Countries C. Cosgrove-Sacks,1999-05-17 This book examines the ways in which EU policies towards developing countries are changing in response to the new challenges of globalization and the end of the Cold War It analyses the patchwork of relationships between the fifteen Member States and more than 140 countries throughout Africa Asia Latin America and the Mediterranean The European Union and Emerging

Powers in the 21st Century Sven Biscop,2016-02-11 The emergence of new powers fundamentally questions the traditional views on international relations multilateralism or security as a range of countries now competes for regional and global leadership economically politically technologically and militarily As the focus of international attention shifts from the Atlantic to the Pacific the European states in particular are seen to lose influence relative to the emerging economic powerhouses of China Russia India and Brazil European nations find themselves too small to engage meaningfully with these continent sized powers and in an increasingly multipolar world are concerned their influence can only continue to decline This book analyses the shifts in the structure of global power and examines the threats and opportunities they bring to Europe Leading European Contributors reflect on how the EU can utilise collective strength to engage and compete with rapidly developing nations They examine perceptions of the EU among the emerging powers and the true meaning and nature of any strategic partnerships negotiated Finally they explore the shape and structure of the international system in the 21st century and how the EU can contribute to and shape it The European Union and the South Marjorie Lister,1997-01-01 At the end of the current millennium the best description of Europe's relations with the developing countries of the South is all change Since 1957 the European Community has operated special policies for developing countries many of which were formerly European colonies However neither the policies for Central and South America the Lome Convention for the African Caribbean and Pacific States nor successive policies for the Mediterranean countries reflect a unified Europe The European Union and the South begins by investigating the prospects for a common European foreign policy It argues that Europe has developed a complex web of external relations but no common foreign policy In so far as the EU seeks a special world role to overcome its image as political dwarf the role of champion or partner of the developing South has much to recommend it This book presents an up to date scholarly analysis of the foreign and development policy dilemmas facing Europe today It will be essential reading for students of European external relations development policy and international affairs The European Union and Developing Countries' Non-trade Concerns Biswajit Dhar,Aileen Kwa,2001

The European Union's Development Policy Dieter Frisch,2008 The European Union and Global Development S. Gänzle,S. Grimm,D. Makhan,2012-04-17 An assessment of the capacity of the EU to coordinate actors and policies with regards to global development The authors argue that the EU and its member states have the potential to act for global development when they are able to improve policy and actor coherence such as through better linking of bilateral and community programmes

The European Union and Developing Countries Yves Bourdet, Joakim Gullstrand, Karin Olofsdotter, 2007-01-01 The EU is the main trading partner of developing countries and the main provider of development aid The contributors to this book evaluate critical aspects of EU trade and aid policies in order to ascertain whether and to what extent they help promote growth and accelerate the development of the Third World

European Union Development Policy Marjorie Lister, 2016-07-27 An authoritative and wide ranging analysis of current issues and dilemmas in the European Union's relations with the developing world The book brings together politicians academics and policy makers to address recent experience and the way ahead after the EU's leading policy the Lome Convention expires in February 2000 Development policy in the various member states and at EU level and the prospects for furthering the international community's human rights and good governance agenda are examined in detail This thorough assessment of one of the EU's oldest most important and yet little known policy fields will be of use to scholars and students of development of European integration and international relations

The European Union and the Developing Countries Olufemi Babarinde, Gerrit Faber, 2005-02-01 The relationships between the European Union and developing countries in Africa the Caribbean and the Pacific or ACP countries have been called a model for North South development cooperation The Lom Conventions were the embodiment of this model After 25 years the European Union and the ACP group signed a new partnership agreement the Cotonou Agreement Given the disappointing results of the former conventions this book investigates the innovations in the EU ACP relationship Authors from different backgrounds including law political science and economics analyze the forces that gave rise to the new agreement as well as the negotiating process of the new agreement and the negotiations that are taking place to produce the planned Economic Partnership Agreements EPA that are to replace the existing non reciprocal trade preferences that are incompatible with WTO law The potential benefits of EPAs are discussed as is the alternative in the shape of an improved and general preferential system The amended mechanism for aid delivery the increased stress on political dialogue between the partners and the introduction of more civil society participation in the cooperation are extensively analyzed and discussed The effects of the introduction of the Euro and the effect of the planned stimuli on Direct Foreign Investment in ACP economies make this volume very complete in coverage of the ACP EU relations Its relevance extends far beyond the ACP EU relationship as it shows and discusses particular solutions for problems that occur in North South relations in general

The Trade-Development Nexus in the European Union Maurizio Carbone, Jan Orbie, 2016-03-22 This volume offers new perspectives on the evolution of the trade development nexus in the European Union against dramatic changes in the international context Without disregarding them it seeks to go beyond the controversial and extensively researched Economic Partnership Agreements EPAs In particular it focuses on the reform of the Generalised System of Preferences the negotiation of various Preferential Trade Agreements the application of trade sanctions the allegedly ambitious agendas on decent work Aid for Trade and aid untying and the implications of the changing balance of power in global economic relations Taking diverse approaches and at times reaching different conclusions contributors directly or indirectly address one or more of the three general themes of the book differentiation coherence and norms This book was published as a special issue of Contemporary Politics EU development cooperation Karin Arts, Anna Dickson, Anna K. Dickson, 2018-07-30 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license It is increasingly recognised that EU development cooperation policy has failed to meet its stated aims In this book Arts and Dickson ask the obvious and important question if the policy doesn't work why bother with it The authors assess why EU development policy has become largely ineffective citing among the external causal factors the liberalisation of trade and the growing influence of US and international actors such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund upon EU policy It also considers contributing factors within the EU such as the enlargement of its membership and the resulting shifts in priorities It is this analysis of internal and external factors affecting the decline of EU development policy that makes this study both innovative and unique It brings together an impressive range of contributors from different disciplines resulting in a thorough and intelligent assessment of the debate This study will appeal to advanced level undergraduates and academics of European politics in general EU integration development studies and International Relations EU 'global Player' Mirjam van Reisen, 1999 The author offers a profound analysis of the dynamics within the European Union necessary for the understanding of the development policies and practices of the EU She argues that the objective of a coherent North South policy should be placed higher on the political agenda and offers concrete proposals as to how EU development policies can be made more effective China, the European Union and the Developing World Jan Wouters, Jean-Christophe Defraigne, Matthieu Burnay, 2015-02-27 China the European Union and the Developing World provides a comparative analysis of Chinese and EU influence across five different regions of the developing world Asia Pacific South and Central Asia the Middle East and North Africa Sub Saharan Af The European Union, Developing Countries and Trade Ciara McGuane, 2010-04 The European Union describes itself as a world player in international relations and is considered the good guy in the international arena This book inspects if these labels rightly applies to its economic policies This project investigates gaps and discrepancies thoroughly and as a result creates awareness of the issue at hand The EU's trading policy is closely linked to its development policy Although the EU can be commended for trading with developing countries and providing them with opportunities for development it remains unclear if the EU has truly provided them with opportunities to benefit from or if they are merely taking advantage of their weak economic status New Issues in European Union Relations with Developing Countries College of Europe (Brugge), 1998 Perspectives on European Development Co-Operation Olav Stokke, Paul Hoebink, 2009 Presents an authoritative overview and analysis of the development cooperation policies of individual European donor countries and the European Union with an emphasis on

continuity and change in the 1990s and beyond The European Union, Developing Countries & Trade Ciara McGuane, 2007 The European Union and the New Trade Politics JOHN PETERSON, Alasdair Young, 2013-10-18 The politics of international trade have changed dramatically over the past 20 years Advances in technology have spurred a new kind of trade involving transfers of components and materials across borders but within firms Trade in services foreign direct investment and sales by affiliates of foreign owned companies have grown more rapidly than trade in goods making national rules and regulations more significant barriers to trade The effects of non trade policies on trade have engaged new actors in trade politics not least in the European Union EU The emergence of a more active bloc of developing countries alongside a vibrant international civil society including environmental and consumer groups and ministries have made trade politics increasingly lively complex and challenging for the EU Meanwhile the World Trade Organization has become not only a primary focus for EU trade policy but also a lightning rod for protest a powerful legaliser of trade diplomacy and an arena where it is often difficult even impossible to separate private from public interests The European Union and the New Trade Politics provides a state of the art analysis of how the EU shapes and is shaped by the new trade politics This book was previously published as a special issue of The Journal of European Public Policy The EU, World Trade Law and the Right to Food Giovanni Gruni, 2018-08-09 In recent years the European Union has developed a comprehensive strategy to conclude free trade agreements which includes not only prominent trade partners such as Canada the United States and Japan but also numerous developing countries This book looks at the existing WTO law and at the new EU free trade agreements with the Caribbean and sub Saharan Africa through the lens of the human right to adequate food It shows how the clauses on the import and export of food included in recent free trade agreements limit the capacity of these countries to implement food security policies and to respect their human rights obligations This outcome appears to be at odds with international human rights law and dismissive of existing human rights references in EU founding treaties as well as in treaties between the EU and developing states Yet the book argues against the conception in human rights literature that there is an inflexible agenda encoded in world trade law which is fundamentally conflictual with non economic interests The book puts forward the idea that the European Union is perfectly placed to develop a narrative of globalisation considering other areas of public international law when negotiating trade agreements and argues that the EU does have the competences and influence to uphold a role of international leadership in designing a sustainable global trading system Will the EU be ambitious enough A timely contribution to the growing academic literature on the relation between world trade law and international human rights law this book imagines a central role for the EU in reconciling these two areas of international law
