Private Sector Development in an Emerging World Diederik Boer, Harald Sander, Katharina Friz, Antonella Anastasi, 2023-12-04 This book explores the interactions between private sector development public policies and societal institutions with a strong view on contributing to sustainable and inclusive development in emerging countries The private sector is often praised as an engine of economic growth This belief has led to significant efforts to promote private sector development in emerging countries Development agencies prioritize private sector development and national governments are following suit resulting in often huge incentives to stimulate and attract private investment However private sector development is not a panacea for sustainable and inclusive development as the past decades have clearly shown Economic growth societal development and environmental sustainability are often in a sharp conflict and more often than not economic growth has failed to improve the lives of all citizens This book examines the role the state and the private sector should play to benefit from the dynamics of business development while ensuring that these benefits are shared broadly without jeopardizing sustainability The views presented differ in detail but the analyses and case studies presented share common themes namely that the relative roles of state and private sector of should be balanced and that this particular balance should be based on the context of each country in order to make the private public sector interaction work for all people

Private Foreign Investment in Developing Countries H.C. Bos, M. Sanders, C. Secchi, 2013-06-29 This study is the result of research undertaken by the Netherlands Economic Institute Division Balanced International Growth Rotterdam under the auspices of the O E C D Development Centre In the division of labour agreed with professor Grant L Reuber who directed a parallel study under the auspices of the Centre the N E I research deals with the evaluation of economic effects of private foreign investment in developing countries The effects studied are confined to macro economic effects which are quantifi able The lack of a satisfactory methodology for the assessment of these effects seemed to justify this limitation in the approach to the evaluation of private foreign investment The study is organized as follows Part I reviews briefly and critically the literature about the evaluation of private foreign investment and suggests the need for an appropriate macro economic methodology Part II develops the principles and techniques for such a methodology which is applied empirical ly to data for five developing countries in Part III While Parts II and III are concerned with the effects of aggregated volumes of private foreign invest of the previous parts the appraisal of ment Part IV considers independently projects financed through foreign investment and discusses the special features of social benefit cost analysis of such projects

A Clash of Paradigms Suan Maiava, 2020-07-24 This title was first published in 2001 This study indicates that researchers have far to go in understanding and assessing how development projects work The author shows that often the perception of failure is not shared by those whom were intended to benefit She uses a case study of Samoan villagers introduced to cattle farming to examine the wider development process and challenge the conventional theories By drawing on people centred perspectives that give much greater weight to the role of culture in development the volume does not simply criticize development project management but suggests practical and positive ways forward encouraging spontaneous indigenous development which should be supported by projects where appropriate

An Assessment of Selected Land Redistribution Programs in Latin America, Asia and Africa and Implications for the Analysis of Land Resettlement in Zimbabwe Martha Jane Sullins, 1991

Human Development Report 1993 United Nations Development Programme, 1993 Since its headline making debut the Human Development Report has become an essential resource for development specialists economists and political scientists around the world While previous Human Development Reports focused on investment in people the 1993 Report not only updates the findings of the earlier volumes but shifts the focus towards the other side of human development mobilizing and utilizing human potential The Report surveys the instruments for enhancing and encouraging participatory patterns of development including privatization and participatory market structures vertical and horizontal decentralization of government functions devolution of government powers enterprise decentralization involvement of NGOs and other grass roots organizations and empowerment of people It probes the vital connections between employment and development and offers a global framework for employment that takes into account the growing pressure for international migration In addition it examines links between human development and international markets for goods capital and labor and presents updated human development indicators for more than 160 countries
