Montague Doesn't 'Get Excited' About Snow

By Charles Tenney
Times Staff Writer

MONTAGUE — Friday morning was sunny, but heavy snow began falling in the afternoon in this town where the national record for 24-hour snowfall was broken last weekend. Residents prepared themselves.

"So you know what I did today?" said Wally G. Ford, sitting beside a fire and watching the snow fall at his house on Factory Road. "I went to the store and got milk and bread, all the necessities."

Mr. Ford, who was town highway superintendent here for two years in the early 1980s, knows enough to prepare for storms. Last weekend, "We were pretty well supplied — we didn't lack for anything," he said. "We keep enough stuff in the wintertime."

And Gene F. Jackson, watching the snow fall from his house nearby on Liberty Road, said: "Well, we don't care."

He sat at the kitchen table beside his wife, Edith. Pointing to windows, he recalled that snow was so high last weekend that it covered all windows in the one-story house except for an eight-inch band at the top of the one over the kitchen sink.

"We are prepared," he said. "We could survive for at least a month, without nothing." They have food, a generator, and lots of firewood, they said.

The recent snowfall broke the national record for measured accumulation in 24 hours that had stood since 1921, according to the National Weather Service in Buffalo. In southern Montague, an observer measured 77 inches falling between 1:30 p.m. Jan. 11 and the same time Sunday, it said.

The old record was 56 inches, measured at Silver Lake, Colo., in April 1921.

A hydrologist at that office, Stephen F. McLaughlin, noted that other storms may have dumped more snow over the years but amounts weren't measured. And, though records should continue to fall because of the growing number of observation stations, he said, the Tug Hill area around Montague is probably where they'll be broken because of the area's pattern of heavy lake-effect snow.

The system that brought that burst of snow also broke a record, for New York state, for snow falling in one storm. The 35 inches measured in southern Montague between Jan. 11 and Tuesday topped New York's record of 69 inches set at Watertown between Jan. 18 and Jan. 23, 1940, according to the National Weather Service.

Judging Extreme Weather Randy Cervený, 2024-02-29 Written by the World Meteorological Organization WMO

Rapporteur of Weather and Climate Extremes this book addresses the reality of extreme weather how it occurs how we measure it and what it means for our future Weather affects everybody and with the increasing impact of climate change and the prevalence of storms droughts and floods it is clear that we are affecting all aspects of weather Consequently people love to talk about weather complain about it argue about it and be intrigued by it Twenty four seven coverage of the weather however has helped foster a tendency for marked overstatement the creation of misconceptions exaggerations and frankly even outright lies Leading expert in weather and climate Randy Cervený draws on his extensive experience with the WMO and personal research to give the reader a behind the scenes look at how weather and climate extremes are recorded and defined He unpacks the science behind these extremes through a number of specific WMO investigations that span a diverse range of countries and weather events including lightning rain hurricanes and tornadoes Cervený balances these factual accounts with playful interludes that detail bizarre and intriguing weather related stories and anecdotes This compelling book is a must read for all those interested in the science behind extreme weather

Historical Climate Variability and Impacts in North America Lesley-Ann Dupigny-Giroux, Cary J. Mock, 2009-09-18 Climatologists with an eye on the past have any number of sources for their work from personal diaries to weather station reports Piecing together the trajectory of a weather event can thus be a painstaking process taking years and involving real detective work Missing pieces of a climate puzzle can come from very far afield often in unlikely places In this book a series of case studies examine specific regions across North America using instrumental and documentary data from the 17th to the 19th centuries Extreme weather events such as the Sitka hurricane of 1880 are recounted in detail while the chapters also cover more widespread phenomena such as the collapse of the Low Country rice culture The book also looks at the role of weather station histories in complementing the instrumental record and sets out the methods that involve early instrumental and documentary climate data Finally the book's focus on North America reflects the fact that the historical climate community there has only grown relatively recently Up to now most such studies have focused on Europe and Asia The four sections begin with regional case studies and move on to reconstruct extreme events and parameters This is followed by the role of station history and lastly methodologies and other analyses The editors aim has been to produce a volume that would be instrumental in molding the next generation of historical climatologists They designed this book for use by general researchers as well as in upper level undergraduate or graduate level courses

Vanishing Point Tom Wilber,2023-05-15 In Vanishing Point award winning journalist and author Tom Wilber pieces together the largely forgotten story of the bomber Getaway Gertie and an eclectic group of enthusiasts who have spent years searching for it At the height of World War II a B 24 Liberator bomber vanished with its crew while on a training mission over upstate New York The final hours and ultimate resting place of pilot Keith Ponder and seven other US aviators aboard the plane remain mysteries to this day The tale is at once a compelling instance of loss on the World War II American home front and a more extensive largely unreported history Ponder a 21 year old from rural Mississippi and his crew were tragically unexceptional casualties in the monumental effort to recruit and train an air force en masse to counter the global conquest of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan More than fifteen thousand American airmen and in some cases women burned crashed or fell to their deaths in stateside training accidents during the war their lives and stories shuffled away in piles of Air Force bureaucracy The forgotten story of Getaway Gertie was originally inspired by summer evenings around the campfire on the shores of Lake Ontario where parts of the plane have washed up Building on those campfire tales Wilber deftly connects myth with fact and memory with historicity The result is a vivid portrait of the forgotten soldier of the home front and a new take on the meaning of wartime sacrifice as the last survivors of the Greatest Generation pass away
