This unique four volume encyclopedia examines the historical significance of fashion trends revealing the social and cultural connections of clothing from the precolonial times to the present day This sweeping overview of fashion and apparel covers several centuries of American history as seen through the lens of the clothes we wear from the Native American moccasin to Manolo Blahnik's contribution to stiletto heels Through four detailed volumes this work delves into what people wore in various periods in our country's past and why from hand crafted family garments in the 1600s to the rough clothing of slaves to the sophisticated textile designs of the 21st century More than 100 fashion experts and clothing historians pay tribute to the most notable garments accessories and people comprising design and fashion The four volumes contain more than 800 alphabetical entries with each volume representing a different era Content includes fascinating information such as that beginning in 1619 through 1654 every man in Virginia was required to plant a number of mulberry trees to support the silk industry in England what is known about the clothing of enslaved African Americans and that there were regulations placed on clothing design during World War II The set also includes color inserts that better communicate the visual impact of clothing and fashion across eras Biennial Report Louisiana State Museum, 1926 A Cultural History of Dress and Fashion in the Age of Empire Denise Amy Baxter, 2018-11-01 During the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the production of dress shifted dramatically from being predominantly hand crafted in small quantities to machine manufactured in bulk The increasing democratization of appearances made new fashions more widely available but at the same time made the need to differentiate social rank seem more pressing In this age of empire the coding of class gender and race was frequently negotiated through dress in complex ways from fashionable dress which restricted or exaggerated the female body to liberating reform dress from self defining black dandies to the oppressions and resistances of slave dress Richly illustrated with over 100 images and drawing on a plethora of visual textual and object sources A Cultural History of Dress and Fashion in the Age of Empire presents essays on textiles production and distribution the body belief gender and sexuality status ethnicity and visual and literary representations to illustrate the diversity and cultural significance of dress and fashion in the period Costume & Fashion Herbert Norris, 1924 In Royal Fashion Kay Staniland, Museum of London, 1997

"Material Women, 1750?950 " Maureen Daly Goggin, 2017-07-05 With the volume's global perspective and comparative framework this collection contributes to the ongoing scholarly examination of consumption by taking the topic of women material culture and consumption into new arenas The essays explore the connections between consumption and subjectivity they build upon and complicate the idea that consumption as a form of meaning making is key to the construction of gendered classed and national identities Providing a cross cultural perspective on consumption the essays are historically specific case studies While some essays examine women's consumption in a range of Anglophone and Francophone locations primarily in Britain France Australia Canada and the US other essays on Chinese Senegalese Indian and Mexican women's consumption particularly as it relates to fashion and design provide a comparative framework that will recalibrate ongoing discussions about consumption and domesticity dress and identity and desire and subjectivity In addition to its focus on gender and consumption this volume addresses gender and collecting exploring the tensions between accumulation and systematic collecting Also examined is the way in which the display of collected objects in Impressionists paintings in mass produced illustrations in the glass cases of museums and department stores participates in the construction of particular identities as well as serving as a kind of value producing material practice

Advertising to the American Woman, 1900-1999 Daniel Delis Hill, 2002 The author focuses on the marketing perspective of the topic and illustrates how women's roles in society have shifted during the past century Among the key issues explored is a peculiar dichotomy of American advertising that served as a conservative reflection of society and at the same time became an underlying force of progressive social change The study shows how advertisers of housekeeping products perpetuated the Happy Homemaker stereotype while tobacco and cosmetics marketers dismantled women's stereotypes to create an entirely new type of consumer
