Every House A Frontier Detroit's Economic Progress 1815 1825:

Every House a Frontier Floyd Russell Dain, 1956 Detroit Perspectives Wilma Wood Henrickson, 1991 Using primary and secondary sources Wilma Henrickson assembles a collection of documents related to decisive moments in the history of Detroit and the region spanning the time from before statehood to the present These were turning points for the region life for the residents took a new direction definitely closing off some options while accepting others Some were brought about by accident others were made by conscious decision The consequences of some decisions were immediate others appeared only after the accumulation of years Among Henrickson's recurring themes are the destruction of the environment and its natural beauty the lure of wealth urban expansion and sprawl and civil rights Selections include Lewis Cass position paper on Indian Removal Jorge de Castellanos article of Black Slavery in Early Detroit and excerpts from the writings of historian and mapmaker Silas Farmer

Trans-Appalachian Frontier, Third Edition Malcolm J. Rohrbough, 2008-01-09 The first American frontier lay just beyond the Appalachian Mountains and along the Gulf Coast Here successive groups of pioneers built new societies and developed new institutions to cope with life in the wilderness In this thorough revision of his classic account Malcolm J Rohrbough tells the dramatic story of these men and women from the first Kentucky settlements to the closing of the frontier Rohrbough divides his narrative into major time periods designed to establish categories of description and analysis presenting case studies that focus on the county the town the community and the family as well as politics and urbanization He also addresses Spanish French and Native American traditions and the anomalous presence of African slaves in the making of this story

The Investment Frontier John D. Haeger, 1981-01-01 The American West did not grow in isolation from the East On the contrary New York financiers and other eastern entrepreneurs were crucial to America's western economic development providing the necessary capital and expertise to transform the West into a productive part of the nation's economy This thesis is powerfully demonstrated by John Denis Haeger in this study concerning the Old Northwest the present day states of Ohio Michigan Indiana Illinois and Wisconsin during the years 1815 1840 The result of years of research in manuscript collections and government documents the book provides a comprehensive picture of early land speculators examining their investments in farm lands town lots banks and transportation improvements as well as their influence on western businessmen and institutions It also explores their political and economic affairs on the East Coast since these matters dramatically affected the scope of their western investments Historians' generalizations about nonresident investors or eastern speculators have previously assumed a common type and business method when in fact easterners possessed varying economic goals and utilized different business strategies To demonstrate this Haeger compares and contrasts the promoter Charles Butler and the conservative speculators Isaac and Arthur Bronson key figures among New York's financial elite whose careers and strategies are for the first time described in detail The activities of these investment pioneers whose every move was calculated to return profits challenge the traditional images of westward expansion as a
