Education, Democracy and Development Clive Harber, Vusi Mncube, 2012-05-14 Education is often seen as the key agency in international development and poverty reduction Frequently the emphasis is on the economic and social role of education in development This book on the other hand is unusual in explicitly examining the political role of education in development In particular it sets out the theories evidence and arguments concerning the potential and actual relationships between education and democracy and critically explores the contradictory role of formal education in both supporting and hindering democratic political development A key theme of the book is the importance of considering the type and nature of the education actually provided and experienced what goes on inside the black box of education Currently in developing countries and elsewhere this is often at odds with democratic principles but the book also provides many examples of successful democratic practice in schools in developing countries as well as discussing a detailed case study of South Africa where democratic change in education is a key aspect of the policy agenda

Livelihoods and Learning Caroline Dyer, 2014-05-30 Current paradigms of development generally serve mobile pastoralist groups poorly their visibility in policy processes is minimal and their mobility is constructed by the powerful as a problem rather than as a rational livelihood strategy Increasingly damaged eco systems shrinking natural resources globalisation and urbanisation all put pressure on pastoralist livelihoods Such processes often worsen rather than alleviate poverty and socio economic marginalisation among pastoralists but they also precipitate engagement with forms of education that may improve their future livelihood security and social status and enhance occupational diversification Opening with a discussion of how the relationships between education poverty and development have been conceived in dominant development discourses this book reviews the disappointing international experience of education provision to mobile pastoralist groups It highlights a lack of sufficient flexibility and relevance to changing livelihoods and more fundamentally education s conceptual location within a sedentarist paradigm of development that is antagonistic to mobility as a legitimate livelihood strategy These global themes are examined in India where policy and practices of education inclusion for mobile marginalised groups are critiqued Empirically based chapters drawing on ethnographic research provide detailed insights into how the Rabaris of Kachchh a pastoralist community in Gujarat Western India engage with education as a social and economic development strategy for both adults and children and show how ethnographic and participatory research approaches can be used for policy advocacy for marginalised groups Livelihoods and Learning highlights the complex contested and often inconsistent role of education in development and the social construction of poverty and calls for a critical reappraisal of the notion of education The book will be key reading for postgraduates and academics in education development studies international and comparative education and research methodology as well as policy makers ministries and related agencies with responsibility for education documents this book demonstrates that the World Bank lies at the centre of the major changes in global education of our time. It outlines the evolution of World Bank lending policies in education and assesses the policy impact of the Bank's educational projects looking at how it has shaped the economic and social policies of many governments including policies that affect education. It has been an influential proponent of the rapid expansion of formal education systems around the world financing much of that expansion. It has been instrumental in forging those policies that see education as a precursor to modernisation served as a major purveyor of Western ideas about how education and the economy are or should be related. Following on from the success of the first edition this revised edition covers topical issues of globalisation and looks into the political debate concerning aid to developing countries. It will be of enormous value to those studying or working in educational policy in developing countries, international organisations and financial institutions and aid agencies.

World Bank Financing of Education Phillip W. Jones, 2007-02-12 Based on detailed analysis of thousands of confidential World Bank

Politics of Educational Innovations in Developing Countries Nelly P. Stromquist, Michael L. Basile, 2003-08-29 In the educational arena new ideas often compete as solutions to recurrent problems making the concept of innovations a widespread discursive term. While expectations are substantial for each innovation, implementation of ideas has shown them to be more modest in practice. This book examines innovations in several developing countries presenting case studies of technological, curricular and organizational innovations selected for their magnitude in financial investment, scope and duration. The case studies explore the social and political contexts that shaped the features of these innovations and what they accomplished over time in terms of teacher cost reduction, status, mobility, access to education and national unity. The experience of countries such as Brazil, Lesotho, the Philippines and Namibia and the influence of international agencies such as the World Bank are described and analyzed against theories of social and organizational change. The case studies themselves also serve as subjects for reflection on the prevailing positivist approaches to research and knowledge. The Politics of Educational Innovations should be of considerable interest to students of educational change whether in the academic world or in the fields of government and international cooperation.

Education and Society in Hong Kong: Toward One Country and Two Systems Gerard A. Postiglione, Julian Leung Yat Ming, 2017-09-29 This title was first published in 1992. Education in Southern Africa Clive Harber, 2013-09-12 Education in Southern Africa is a comprehensive critical reference guide to education in the region. With chapters written by an international team of leading regional education experts, the book explores the education systems of each country in the region. With chapters covering Botswana, Lesotho, Madagascar, Mozambique, Namibia, South Africa, Swaziland and Zimbabwe, the book critically examines the development of education provision in each country as well as local and global contexts. Including a comparative introduction to the issues facing education in the region as a whole and guides to available online datasets, this handbook will be an essential reference for researchers, scholars, international agencies and policy makers at all levels.
