sound overview of the critical issues of gender in lifelong learning Asking pertinent questions relating to discourses on policy the authors offer the reader a rare view of lifelong learning from a gender focused perspective filling a gap in the literature and moving current debate on into new areas Questions addressed include To what extent can the policy discourses and institutional contexts of lifelong learning be seen as masculinised and or feminised What are the gender implications of lifelong learning policy In what ways are learners identities constructed through lifelong learning Does lifelong learning provide opportunities to challenge or transgress gender binaries What are the implications for practice supply, skill demand and skill match-mismatch Richard Desjardins, 2014-03-28 This book is a collection of three independent but closely related studies The focus is on the potential causes of skill mismatch the extent of skill mismatch the socio demographic make up of skill mismatch and the consequences of skill mismatch in terms of earnings as well as employer sponsored adult education training A distinction is made between skill mismatch and education mismatch All three studies use data from the Adult Literacy and Lifeskills Survey ALLS to investigate the relationships between select outcomes and skill supply demand characteristics as well as their interactions which materialize into skill match mismatch situations The dataset contains direct measures of literacy skills as well as measures of the use of these skills at work which allow for a direct measure of literacy match mismatch The analysis points to the complex ways in which mismatch is generated and the need for an accurate and up to date measure of mismatch one that reflects the possibilities for skill gain and skill loss over the lifespan and reflects differences in the quality of qualifications It also emphasizes that addressing mismatch requires a careful consideration of both the demand and supply sides of the labour market so as to understand better the variety of factors which may have a negative impact on the effectiveness of skill formation skill maintenance and also skill use Among the key findings Skill demand characteristics appear to be as important as skill supply characteristics in explaining observed variation in earnings There is a substantive association between the requirement to read at work and earnings which is independent of whether individuals have high or low levels of literacy proficiency Premiums associated with literacy skills are strongest in occupation types where they are most relevant but premiums associated with the requirement to use those skills are nevertheless found to be strong within all occupational groups. The requirement to read at work seems to have a strong association with the incidence of participation in employer supported adult education training This has important implications for understanding better the relationship between how work is organized and the decision to further invest in Babies and Bosses - Reconciling Work and Family Life (Volume 4) Canada, Finland, Sweden and human capital the United Kingdom OECD, 2005-05-27 This study part of a series on OECD countries considers how a tax benefit and childcare policies and workplace practices help determine parental labour market outcomes and may impinge on family formation in Canada Finland Sweden and the UK What does Good Education Research Look Like? Lifelong Learning in Paid and Unpaid Work D.W. Livingstone, 2015-04-08 Italy Macau Singapore and the United Kingdom Lifelong Learning is essential to all individuals and in recent years has become a guiding principle for policy initiatives ranging from national economic competition to issues of social cohesion and personal fulfilment However despite the importance of lifelong learning there is a critical absence of direct international evidence on its extent content and outcomes Lifelong Learning in Paid and Unpaid Work provides a new paradigm for understanding work and learning documenting the active contribution of workers to their development and their adaptation to paid and unpaid work Empirical evidence drawn from national surveys in Canada and eight related case studies is used to explore the current learning activities of those in paid employment housework and volunteer work addressing all forms of learning including formal schooling further education courses informal training and self directed learning particularly in the context of organisational and technological change Proposing an expanded conceptual framework for investigating the relationships between learning and work the contributors offer new insights into the ways in which adult learning adapts to and helps reshape the wide contemporary world of work throughout the life course Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work ,2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology New Perspectives on African-Centred Education in Canada George Jerry Sefa Dei, Arlo Kempf, 2013 New Perspectives on African Centred Education in Canada is the first study of African centred schooling in the Canadian context Starting with an in depth look at the creation of an Africentric public school within the Toronto District School Board it tells the story of the movement behind that school's creation and lays bare a rich history of activism organization and resistance on the part of numerous African Canadian communities and their allies The book presents a critical overview of the issues facing racialized students and offers a unique vision of African centred education as a strategy for student engagement and social transformation The authors well known public commentators on African centred education in Canada offer a comprehensive analysis of the media controversy surrounding African centred schools as well as candid reflections on the personal challenges of fighting a largely unpopular battle Oueering Social Work Education Susan Hillock, Nick J.
