Tsui, 2015-03-12 This study examines how and why China's military intervention in the Korean War came into existence within the time span from May 1949 to July 1951 China was involved in the war preparations much earlier and deeper than was previously known Beijing's preconditions to enter the war boiled down to three 1 its full control of China 2 foreign enemy forces invasion of North Korea and 3 Moscow's logistic and air support Beijing had incorrectly calculated that Washington would dispatch only Japanese field forces to Korea which is the very reason underlying its inadequate though early preparations for the war while it had correctly calculated that Washington would not invade China proper via Korea before it entered the war Expecting an enemy troops landing at Inchon followed by their invasion of North Korea Beijing planned to ambush them in northern North Korea It therefore failed to dispatch a symbolic force into Korea to give credibility to diplomatic deterrence against Washingtons possible invasion of North Korea China developed ten prime interventionist goals as follows 1 to save North Korea 2 to dispel Stalins suspicions and to pay Maos political debt owed to Stalin in 1941 and 1942 3 to have the PLA experienced in modern warfare 4 to have the PLA modernized with Soviet weaponry 5 to have its economy revitalized with overall Soviet assistance 6 to enter the United Nations 7 to exchange South Korean territories for an American withdrawal from Taiwan 8 to have Nationalist forces in Taiwan 9 to defuse an American retaliatory or nuclear attack upon China proper and 10 to have North Korea and South Korea almost return to the status quo ante bellum It was Maos de facto dependence upon rather than his alleged independence from Stalin that had made him rise to power in 1949 This Soviet reign turned out to be considerably more decisive than the American threat in driving China into the war in 1950
