Europe? Paul R. Beije, 1987 The New European Industrial Policy Franco Mosconi, 2015-05-22 The years since the global financial crisis have seen something of a renaissance in the manufacturing industry The United States has launched its Advanced Manufacturing Partnership and China owes much of its spectacular economic boom in the last decades to its being the world's factory Is there room for the EU in this landscape This timely new book explores Europe's role in this evolving environment It argues that on the one hand in terms of sheer numbers the role of the manufacturing industry in the EU is on a par with other major global economies However the book also states that Europe falls short of its global competitors the USA in particular in terms of its involvement in the most innovative manufacturing sectors The volume therefore argues that this creates the opportunity for a new European industrial policy Exploring the development of current EU policy the book puts forward suggestions as to how the EU can improve in terms of the competitiveness of its technology policy Placing the EU's position in the context of the industrial structures of the USA Japan and the BRICs the book blends theoretical models and practical examples in order to offer a the state of the art look at the current and future direction of Europe's industrial policy This book will be of relevance to all those with an interest in European economics industrial economics public policy European politics and European studies European Industrial Policy James Foreman-Peck, Giovanni Federico, 1999 At the end of the 20th century with stagnating industrial output unemployment in many European countries has climbed to levels not seen since the 1930s Interventionist industrial policies thus find new popularity after the gentle flirtation with liberalization in the early 1990s Under the Maastricht Treaty the European Union was granted industrial policy powers for the first time The present study aims to contribute to an understanding of European industrial policy by introducing an historical perspective National policy continuities and the considerable time over which industrial performance responds to changed environments emerge with greater clarity in the long run The chapters in this book take a broad view of industrial policy including those policies that establish the framework such as competition law as well as sector for firm specific policies The overall conclusion is that improved framework policies such as liberalization and re regulation are still essential Monetary union in the core will increase tensions arising from economic inflexibility Although there are often strong political barriers blocking implementation of appropriate industrial policies they will be even more necessary under monetary union

European Union Competition Policy versus Industrial Competitiveness Hikaru Yoshizawa,2021-11-10 The book examines whether EU competition policy is applied fairly and consistently to EU and non EU firms despite persistent political pressure from member states for a relaxation of the rules and deals with the dilemma of regional organisations in the global political economy Focussing on the EU s desire to achieve balance between the promotion of market competition and the enhancement of international competitiveness the book explores the validity of its attempts successfully to ensure a stringent competition policy which is nationality blind and comparatively strict Finally it shows that the competition competitiveness dilemma remains unresolved because the EU s capability to set global regulatory standards is constrained by competition and the need to engage in multilateral forums such as the WTO and the International Competition Network This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union studies EU competition law and policy EU external action and more broadly to global governance international political economy and international relations The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
