debates where consensus has not yet been achieved These cases illustrate key points made throughout the PRO RES EU funded project from which they arise that ethical judgement is a fluid enterprise where values principles and standards must constantly adjust to new situations new events and new research developments This book is an indispensable aid to policymaking that addresses and or uses evidence from novel research developments Europe's World Knud Erik Jørgensen, Tonny Brems Knudsen, Laura Landorff, 2025-05-27 The EU's international environment is increasingly characterized by power politics great power rivalry ideological contestation and war This has challenged the liberal internationalist identity that has been at the heart of the EU since its birth This book examines how the EU has responded to these new realities It analyses the introduction of a flurry of concepts including European sovereignty strategic autonomy civilization responsibility and strategic compass and asks whether these signal a reconsideration of foreign policy objectives a new strategic orientation or possibly a paradigm shift The book develops a theoretical framework on policy paradigms worldviews grand strategy strategic narratives and the drivers of institutional change followed by chapters on the anti liberal challenge the evolution of the EU framework of ideas the search for grand strategy and strategic autonomy the response to Russian aggression and imperial thinking and continuity and change in EU unity working groups green leadership and strategic communication Systems and Innovation Research in Transition Jakob Edler, Rainer Walz, 2024-09-25 In the last decades it has become more and more imperative for our societies and for decision makers in all areas of society to understand the dynamics through which innovation systems develop and through which socio technical systems transform themselves As both innovation and transformation are strongly intertwined it has equally become imperative to analyse their dynamics as well as their interplay This open access volume reflects on the research fields that have developed in the last five decades to do exactly that It defines and delineates research on systems and innovation as encompassing the scientific study of first the conditions dynamics and impacts associated with the generation and uptake of innovations and second the development and transformation of functional systems satisfying essential needs such as the provision of energy or water Further the area of Systems and Innovation Research SIR is characterised by problem and stakeholder oriented research We chose five decades as time frame because we noted that roughly 50 years ago a number of research institutes dedicated to SIR were founded and the SIR area started to grow significantly We present a systematic history of nine selected fields within the area of SIR Innovation policy Innovation indicators Foresight Policy Evaluation Technology Assessment Production Paradigms Renewable Energies Energy Efficiency Water Use We also present a conceptual framework to understand the processes by which the research fields have developed This allows to draw general lessons as to what drives fields throughout their development and how their role vis vis policy businesses and societies changes over time It also allows to speculate about future challenges and trends in the SIR area This is important because if anything the need to govern transformation through innovation will further grow in the future and with it the need to understand the underlying dynamics

Erkkilä,2013-09-26 Global University Rankings explores the novel topic of global university rankings and their effects on higher education in Europe The contributions in this volume outline different discourses on global university rankings and explore the related changes concerning European higher education policies disciplinary traditions and higher education institutions The first global university rankings were published less than a decade ago but these policy instruments have become highly influential in shaping the approaches and institutional realities of higher education The rankings have portrayed European academic institutions in a varying light There is intense reflexivity over the figures leading to ideational changes and institutional adaptation that take surprisingly similar forms in different European countries The contributions in this book critically assess global university rankings as a policy discourse that would seem to be instrumental to higher education reform throughout Europe FLEEING PERSECUTION Henrique Zanin,2023-11-13 In a world that still persecutes marginalises and discriminates LGBTQI individuals and where asylum seekers and refugees are denied rights and have their basic humanity violated this publication intends to understand the asylum policies the German government develops specifically tailored to the needs of LGBTQI asylum seekers and refugees and whether the literature has addressed the implementation of such policies across the European continent LGBTQI asylum is a rather new field of research Among the European states Germany has been more open to asylum than other states in the continent and has received the world s highest number of asylum seekers between 2010 and 2019 which justifies the interest in researching the asylum policies in place in that state beyond investigating the European scenario in general The research combines theoretical and empirical analyses as well as a systematic literature review in order to create a framework of protection and rights across the European continent States in general still seem to lack social inclusion policies as discrimination homophobia transphobia and xenophobia are generalised social issues that permeates many European states This publication hopes such a summary of European good practices and literature suggestions is taken into consideration by states around the world in order to make sure they are addressing LGBTQI asylum in an appropriate manner that respects individuals personal characteristics and humanity e-Services Alfredo M. Ronchi,2019-04-17 This book explores various e Services related to health learning culture media and the news and the influences the Web and related technologies have had and continue to have in each of these areas both on service providers and service users. It provides insights into the main technological and human issues regarding healthcare, aging, population, recent challenges in the educational environment, the impact of digital technologies on culture and heritage, cultural diversity, freedom of expression, intellectual property, fake news, and last but not least public opinion manipulation and ethical issues. Its main aim is to bridge the gap between technological solutions, their successful implementation, and the fruitful utilization of the main set of e-Services mostly delivered by private or public companies. Today various parameters actively influence e-Services success or failure: cultural aspects, organisational and privacy issues, bureaucracy and workflows, infrastructure and technology in general, user habits, literacy, capacity, or merely interaction design. This includes having a significant population of citizens who are willing and able to adopt and use online services as well as developing the managerial and technical capability to implement applications that meet citizens' needs. This book helps readers understand the mutual dependencies involved, further a selection of success stories and failures, duly commented on, enables readers to identify the right approach to innovation in areas that offer the opportunity to reach a wide audience with minimal effort. With its balanced humanistic and technological approach, the book mainly targets public authorities, decision makers, stakeholders, solution developers, and graduate students.

After Empires Giuliano Garavini, 2012-10-25 After Empires describes how the end of colonial empires and the changes in international politics and economies after decolonization affected the European integration process. Until now studies on European integration have often focussed on the search for peaceful relations among the European nations, particularly between Germany and France, or examined it as an offspring of the Cold War, moving together with the ups and downs of transatlantic relations. But these two factors alone are not enough to explain the rise of the European Community and its more recent transformation into the European Union. Giuliano Garavini focuses instead on the emergence of the Third World as an international actor, starting from its initial economic cooperation with the creation of the United Nations Conference for Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in 1964 up to the end of unity among the countries of the Global South after the second oil shock in 1979-80. Offering a new, less myopic way to conceptualise European history more globally, the study is based on a variety of international archives, government archives in Europe, the US, Algeria, Venezuela, international organizations such as the EC, UNCTAD, and the World Bank, political and social organizations such as the Socialist International, labour archives, and the papers of oil companies, and traces the reactions and the initiatives of the countries of the European Community but also of the European political parties and public opinion to the rise and fall of the Third World on the international stage.
