Evaluating Possible Airfield Deployment Options Middle East Contingency:

Evaluating Possible Airfield Deployment Options. Middle East Contingencies ,2001 Since the end of the Gulf War the U S military has participated in more than 50 contingencies worldwide that have called for some level of military force deployment Throughout this period it has become evident that no matter where or when the next such crisis arises airpower will be a key and early entry component of any response package that is formulated Yet while the United States can project limited airpower over long distances current and next generation ground based tactical combat aircraft cannot efficiently conduct high tempo long duration operations from extended ranges to the contrary such aircraft are far more effective when operating out of airfields in the contingency theater If the West seeks to establish a presence or to employ military power in distant regions effectively coalition forces will thus require access to the contingency theater and to specific facilities within that theater In an effort to shape regional security environments and to enhance U S relations with countries in their area of responsibility AOR regional commanders in chief CINCs develop and execute theater engagement plans In part such programs seek to support timely access to key regional facilities U S and NATO air forces routinely conduct joint training exercises with several Middle Eastern air forces and the United States has established working agreements for access rights to specific facilities and for the prepositioning of sets of combat equipment and wartime consumables Yet significant access problems in that region remain
