Program Evaluation in Social Research Jonathan A. Morell, 2013-10-22 Program Evaluation in Social Research presents a plan for developing evaluation into a form of applied social research that is not only methodologically sound but also relevant to the problems of society and built on a technological as opposed to a scientific model This book views evaluation as applied relevant social research and as social technology and assesses its validity and usefulness This monograph is comprised of eight chapters and begins with an assessment of the consequences of program evaluation for the conduct of social research and for society at large and how evaluation can be made into a method of generating practical and powerful suggestions for planning successful social programs The concept of outcome evaluation is also organized into meaningful categories which can be used for the intelligent planning of appropriate evaluation activities. The reader is then introduced to the types of evaluation that are carried out the relative merits of each type and how to optimize the validity and utility of each type Evaluation as a technological rather than a scientific pursuit is also discussed The remaining chapters focus on the frictions that arise during the implementation of program evaluation program evaluation as a profession and how evaluation can be developed into a relevant and powerful method of guiding the course of social innovations This text will be a useful resource for sociologists social scientists and social researchers

Roberts, 2015-01-28 Citizen involvement is considered the cornerstone of democratic theory and practice Citizens today have the knowledge and ability to participate more fully in the political technical and administrative decisions that affect them On the other hand direct citizen participation is often viewed with skepticism even wariness Many argue that citizens do not have the time preparation or interest to be directly involved in public affairs and suggest instead that representative democracy or indirect citizen participation is the most effective form of government Some of the very best writings on this key topic which is at the root of the entire reinventing government movement can be found in the journals that ASPA publishes or sponsors In this collection Nancy Roberts has brought together the emerging classics on the ongoing debate over citizen involvement Her detailed introductory essay and section openers frame the key issues provide historical context and fill in any gaps not directly covered by the articles More than just an anthology The Age of Direct Citizen Participation provides a unique and useful framework for understanding this important subject It is an ideal resource for any Public Administration course involving citizen engagement and performance management Going it Alone? Ernest R. Leeuw, 2011-12-31 Over the past twenty to thirty years evaluation has become increasingly important to the field of public policy The number of people involved and specializing in evaluation has also increased markedly Evidence of this trend can be found in the International Atlas of Evaluation the establishment of new journals and evaluation societies and the increase in systems of evaluation Increasingly the main reference point has become an assessment of the merit and value of interventions as such rather than the evaluator s disciplinary background This growing importance of evaluation as an activity has also led to an increasing demand for the type of competencies evaluators should have Evaluation began as a niche area within the social and behavioral sciences It subsequently became linked to policy research and analysis and has more recently become trans disciplinary. This volume demonstrates an association between the evaluation tradition in a particular country or policy field and the nature of the relationship between social and behavioral science research and evaluative practice This book seeks to offer comprehensive data which lead to conclusions about patterns that transcend the gap between evaluation and the social scientific disciplines Mind the Gap has a twofold aim The first is to highlight and characterize the gap between evaluation practices and debates and the substantive knowledge debates within the social and behavioral sciences The second is to show why this gap is problematic for the practice of evaluation while at the same time illustrating possible ways to build bridges The book is centered on the value of producing useful evaluations grounded in social science theory and research 21st Century Sociology: A Reference Handbook Clifton DHHS Publication No. (OHDS). ,19?? D. Bryant, Dennis L. Peck, 2007 Publisher Description Evaluation in Small Development Non-Profits Leanne M. Kelly, 2020-10-30 Research on evaluation shows that low use and non use of evaluation is common yet evaluation is hailed as beneficial and worthwhile The worth of evaluation is tied to its utilisation presenting a paradox if evaluation is both revered and underutilised This book investigates this paradox in the under researched context of small development non profit organisations which have specific resource constraints and bottom up community development values that complicate their ability to do and use evaluation in line with top down directives The book examines the utility meaningfulness and purpose of evaluation from small non profit perspectives and explores whether evaluation has value for these organisations For development practice it presents evaluative alternatives that reconceptualise evaluation as part of the active process of development rather than as an interval based add on For evaluation theory it highlights a historical preoccupation with improving evaluation without assessing its inherent worth and considers alternative ways to enhance the value of evaluation for small non profits Criminal Justice Evaluation National Criminal Justice Reference Service (U.S.),1975
