Black Women in the Fiction of James Baldwin Trudier Harris, 1985 In James Baldwin s fiction according to Trudier Harris Black women are conceptually limited figures until their author ceases to measure them by standards of the community fundamentalist church Harris analyzes works written over a thirty year period to show how Baldwin s development of female character progresses through time Black women in the early fiction responding to their elders as well as to religious influences see their lives in terms of duty as wives mothers sisters and lovers Failure in any of these roles leads to feelings of guilt and the expectation of damnation In his later works Baldwin adopts a new point of view acknowledging complex extenuating circumstances in lieu of pronouncing moral judgement Female characters in works written at this stage eventually come to believe that the church affords no comfort Baldwin subsequently makes villains of some female churchgoers and caring women who do not attend church become his most attractive characters Still later in Baldwin s career a woman who frees herself of guilt by moving completely beyond the church attains greater contentment than almost all of her counterparts in the earlier works
