The Gaia Atlas of Cities Herbert Girardet, 1996 In the last 100 years global urban populations have expanded from 15 to 50% Urban growth patterns are changing the face of the earth and the condition of humanity This atlas addresses these key issues and analyses the problems of expanding cities

The Gaia Atlas of Cities Herbert Girardet, 1992 In the last 100 years global urban populations have expanded from 15 to 50 per cent Urban growth patterns are changing the face of the Earth and the condition of humanity This book addresses these key issues analyzing the problems of expanding city populations and exploring the possibility of healing cities making them self sustaining responsible for themselves and their immediate surroundings and the global shift from settlement to city Part Two explains how a sick city makes for a sick world and how expanding cities become parasites on their surroundings Part Three takes a realistic look at people and cities and how they work together and identifies ways of healing cities Finally the conclusion explains just how close Earth is to her carrying capacity and why there is a need to act now to prevent a system overload produced TV documentaries on tropical forests including Jungle Pharmacy The Altamira Gathering and Halting the Fires

The Natural City Stephen B. Scharper, Ingrid Leman-Stefanovic, 2012-01-01 Urban and natural environments are often viewed as entirely separate entities human settlements as the domain of architects and planners and natural areas as untouched wilderness This dichotomy continues to drive decision making in subtle ways but with the mounting pressures of global climate change and declining biodiversity it is no longer viable New technologies are promising to provide renewable energy sources and greener designs but real change will require a deeper shift in values attitudes and perceptions A timely and important collection The Natural City explores how to integrate the natural environment into healthy urban centres from philosophical religious socio political and planning perspectives Recognizing the need to better link the humanities with public policy The Natural City offers unique insights for the development of an alternative vision of urban life

Missiology John Mark Terry, 2015-09-01 Thoroughly updated and revised with half of the chapters new to the second edition Missiology equips the reader with a vast graduate level resource on contemporary missions

Key Thinkers on Cities Regan Koch, Alan Latham, 2017-05-22 Key Thinkers on Cities provides an engaging introduction to the dynamic intellectual field of urban studies It profiles the work of 40 innovative thinkers who represent the broad reach of contemporary urban scholarship and whose ideas have shaped the way cities around the world are understood researched debated and acted upon Providing a synoptic overview that spans a wide range of academic and professional disciplines theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches the entry for each key thinker comprises A succinct introduction and overview Intellectual biography and research focus An explication of key ideas Contributions to urban studies The book offers a fresh look at well known thinkers who have been foundational to urban scholarship including Jane Jacobs Henri Lefebvre Manuel Castells and David Harvey It also incorporates those who have helped to bring a concern for cities to more widespread audiences such as Jan Gehl Mike Davis and Enrique Pe alosa Notably the book also includes a range of thinkers who have more recently begun to shape the study of cities through engagements with art architecture computer modelling ethnography public health post colonial theory and more With an introduction that provides a mapping of the current transdisciplinary field and individual entries by those currently involved in cutting edge urban research in the Global North and South this book promises to be an essential text for anyone interested in the study of cities and urban life It will be of use to those in the fields of anthropology economics geography sociology and urban planning      Towards an

Environment Research Agenda A. Winnett,2002-12-13 This is the second volume of papers in the topical area of environmental management Arising from work done by the International Centre for the Environment at the University of Bath the papers address inter disciplinary environmental themes particularly from a business and management perspective

Building the Ecological City Rodney R. White,2002-03-05 Our cities are plagued by problems of congestion waste and pollution that deplete natural resources damage the environment and reduce the quality of life for their citizens The irony is as this fascinating new study shows it doesn t have to be like this Building the Ecological City describes the problems we face and puts forward solutions to the question how can we build cities that provide an acceptable standard of living for their inhabitants without depleting the ecosystems and bio geochemical cycles on which they depend The book suggests and examines the concept of urban metabolism which characterizes the city as a set of interlinked systems of physical flows linking air land and water A series of chapters looks at the production and management of waste energy use and air emissions water supply and management urban land use and air quality issues Within the broader context of climate change the book then considers a range of practical strategies for restoring the health of urban ecosystems from the remediation of brownfield land to improving air quality and making better use of water resources A major contribution to better urban management and planning for both citizens and the environment Building the Ecological City is an invaluable sourcebook for urban and national planners architects and environmental agencies      Transforming Cities Nick Jewson,Susanne

Macgregor,2018-05-11 Transforming Cities examines the profound changes that have characterised cities of the advanced capitalist societies in the final decades of the twentieth century It analyses ways in which relationships of contest conflict and co operation are realised in and through the social and spatial forms of contemporary urban life This book focuses on the impact of economic restructuring and changing forms of urban deprivation and social exclusion It contends that these processes are creating new patterns of social division and new forms of regulation and control      Ecopolis Paul F.

Downton,2008-12-09 From 2008 for the first time in human history half of the world s population now live in cities Yet despite a wealth of literature on green architecture and planning there is to date no single book which draws together theory from the full range of disciplines from architecture planning and ecology which we must come to grips with if we are to design future cities which are genuinely sustainable Paul Downton s Ecopolis takes a major step along this path It highlights the urgent need to understand the role of cities as both agents of change and means of survival at a time when climate change has finally grabbed world attention and it provides a framework for designing cities that integrates knowledge both academic and practical from a range of relevant disciplines Identifying key theorists practitioners places and philosophies the book provides a solid theoretical context which introduces the concept of urban fractals and goes on to present a series of design and planning tools for achieving Sustainable Human Ecological Development SHED Combining knowledge from diverse fields to present a synthesis of urban ecology the book will provide a valuable resource for students researchers and practitioners in architecture construction planning geography and the traditional life sciences Design for Regenerative Cities and Landscapes Rob Roggema, 2022-05-06 This book discusses the way to design and plan for regenerative cities and landscapes Where sustainability aims to safeguard the resources for future generations and the resilience concept focuses on dealing with shocks to keep the system functioning regeneration aims to give back more than it takes from the system This principle is often used in analytical and assessment literature but not yet elaborated in a spatial planning and design context which this book does It offers insights from a range of perspectives spatial scales such as the country level neighbourhood public space streets and the building levels scientific fields and continents amongst which Africa Oceania and Europe

Making Cities Work Richard Gilbert, Don Stevenson, Herbert Girardet, Richard Stren, 2013-11-05 For too long cities have been thought of as environmental blackspots with high levels of air and soil pollution overcrowding poor sanitation and growing waste disposal problems This book takes a more positive attitude cities can be made to work sustainably Their high population density can work in the environment's favour if they can achieve efficient use of resources such as energy and water supplies and improve transport and infrastructure The best cities today are clean resource efficient green and pleasant and not only act as cultural and entertainment centres but also harbour great varieties of wildlife Making Cities Work looks at the vital role which local authorities can and must play in safeguarding and developing our towns and cities Their role is crucial and the aim of the book is to make governments international bodies and local authority associations aware of how potential environmental and social problems can be overcome and what can be achieved This book is being written by urban development experts based on material supplied by the world's leading city associations It is being edited by one of the world's most highly regarded cultural ecologists and has been commissioned by UNHCS for the Habitat II conference Clearly written accessible and fully illustrated throughout with photographs figures and graphs it is ideal for students fascinating reading for the general public and essential for those involved in local authorities planning and development Urban

Regeneration in the UK Andrew Tallon, 2013-06-07 Striking transformations are taking place in the urban landscape The regeneration of urban areas in the UK and around the world has become an increasingly important issue amongst governments and populations since the global economic downturn This textbook provides an accessible and critical synthesis of urban regeneration in the UK analyzing key policies approaches issues and debates It places the historical and contemporary regeneration agenda in context The second edition has been extensively revised and updated to incorporate advances in literature policy and case study examples as well as giving greater discussion to the New Labour period of urban policy and the urban agenda and regeneration policies of the Conservative Liberal Democrat Coalition government elected in 2010 The book is divided into five sections with Section I establishing the conceptual and political framework for urban regeneration in the UK Section II traces policies that have been adopted by central government to influence the social economic and physical development of cities including early town and country and housing initiatives community focused urban policies of the late 1960s entrepreneurial property led regeneration of the 1980s competition for urban funds in the 1990s urban renaissance and neighborhood renewal policies of the late 1990s and early 2000s and new approaches since 2010 which have sought to stimulate enterprise and embrace localism in an age of austerity resulting from the global economic downturn Section III illustrates the key thematic policies and strategies that have been pursued by cities themselves focusing particularly on improving economic competitiveness tackling social disadvantage and promoting sustainable urban regeneration Section IV summarizes key issues and debates facing urban regeneration in the early 2010s and speculates upon future directions in an era of economic and political uncertainty Urban Regeneration in the UK combines the approaches taken by central government and cities themselves to regenerate urban areas providing a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of the field Each chapter also contains case studies study questions suggested further reading and websites making this an essential resource for undergraduate students interested in Urban Studies Geography Planning and the Built Environment
