Game Theory for the Social Sciences Hervé Moulin, 1986      Eighty-nine Exercises with Solutions from Game Theory for the Social Sciences, Second and Revised Edition Hervé Moulin, 1986      Game Theory for the Social Sciences Herve Moulin, 1986-10-01 The second edition of Herve Moulin's highly successful book outlines the fundamental concepts of game theory one of the most provocative and fruitful applications of mathematics to the human sciences and demonstrates its uses in economic and political discourse Thoroughly revised and now published with an accompanying workbook of 89 exercises this rigorous yet accessible text explains the uses of game theory in largely nontechnical terms Moulin carefully discusses the behavioral scenarios underlying the various equilibrium concepts He provides a self contained exposition of basic equilibrium concepts for strategic games perfect sophisticated equilibrium Nash's noncooperative example Aumann's strong and correlated example and several versions of the core The author is concerned less with mathematical refinements than with helping the reader understand the strategic stories backing these concepts His examples therefore give a fair account of the current game models used in economics politics and sociology Addressed here are oligopoly theory the provision of public goods auctions voting procedures and cost allocation problems as well as the classic prisoner's dilemma tic tac toe and Marienbad games Extremely popular in its original French edition and in its first English version Moulin's excellent introductory text is now more than ever the book to answer the essential questions about the application of game theory to the social sciences      Game Theory Mary A. Barriers and Bounds to Rationality Peter S. Albin, 2021-10-12 Peter Albin is known for his seminal work in applying the concepts of adaptive dynamical systems first developed by biologists and physicists to the study of economic systems This book is a collection of his pathbreaking articles on the application of cellular automata and complexity theory to economic problems Duncan Foley provides a thoughtful introduction in which he reviews the disparate analytical sources of Albin's work in the theories of nonlinear dynamical systems economic dynamics cellular automata linguistic and computational complexity and bounded rationality Albin has analyzed economic systems as interactions of highly complex components i.e. intelligent human beings He uses the theories of generative linguistics and cellular automata to establish that the complexity level of economic systems is in principle at least that of a Turing machine or general purpose computer establishing that classic economic approaches to the problems of household and firm choice macroeconomic prediction and policy evaluation may give rise to undecidable propositions and uncomputable functions He develops simple models of dynamic economic interaction based on cellular automata which illustrate the inherent complexity of economic interactions and the resulting challenge they pose to traditional theories of rational economic behavior These models explore the dynamics of the business cycle decentralized market trading and the emergence of cooperation in a novel local interaction version of the repeated prisoners dilemma game Albin's work provides a unique and important perspective on economic systems

Economics and Computation Jörg Rothe, 2024-06-28 This textbook connects three vibrant areas at the interface between economics and computer science: algorithmic game theory, computational social choice, and fair division. It thus offers an interdisciplinary treatment of collective decision making from an economic and computational perspective. Part I introduces to algorithmic game theory focusing on both noncooperative and cooperative game theory. Part II introduces to computational social choice focusing on both preference aggregation (voting) and judgment aggregation. Part III introduces to fair division focusing on the division of both a single divisible resource (cake cutting) and multiple indivisible and unshareable resources (multiagent resource allocation). In all these parts, much weight is given to the algorithmic and complexity-theoretic aspects of problems arising in these areas, and the interconnections between the three parts are of central interest.
