Teaching Data Analytics Susan A Vowels, Katherine Leaming Goldberg, 2019-06-17 The need for analytics skills is a source of the burgeoning growth in the number of analytics and decision science programs in higher education developed to feed the need for capable employees in this area. The very size and continuing growth of this need means that there is still space for new program development. Schools wishing to pursue business analytics programs intentionally assess the maturity level of their programs and take steps to close the gap. Teaching Data Analytics Pedagogy and Program Design is a reference for faculty and administrators seeking direction about adding or enhancing analytics offerings at their institutions. It provides guidance by examining best practices from the perspectives of faculty and practitioners. By emphasizing the connection of data analytics to organizational success, it reviews the position of analytics and decision science programs in higher education and to review the critical connection between this area of study and career opportunities. The book features a variety of perspectives ranging from the scholarly theoretical to the practitioner applied. An in-depth look into a wide breadth of skills from closely technology focused to robustly soft human connection skills. Resources for existing faculty to acquire and maintain additional analytics relevant skills that can enrich their current course offerings. Acknowledging the dichotomy between data analytics and data science, this book emphasizes data analytics rather than data science, although the book does touch upon the data science realm. Starting with industry perspectives, the book covers the applied world of data analytics, covering necessary skills and applications as well as developing compelling visualizations. It then dives into pedagogical and program design approaches in data analytics education and concludes with ideas for program design tactics. This reference is a launching point for discussions about how to connect industry's need for skilled data analysts to higher education's need to design a rigorous curriculum that promotes student critical thinking, communication, and ethical skills. It also provides insight into adding new elements to existing data analytics courses and for taking the next step in adding data analytics offerings, whether it be incorporating additional analytics assignments into existing courses, offering one course designed for undergraduates, or an integrated program designed for graduate students.

Patent and Trademark Office, 2001 Advanced Intelligent Computing. Theories and Applications De-Shuang Huang, Martin McGinnity, Laurent Heutte, Xiao-Ping Zhang, 2010-07-30. The International Conference on Intelligent Computing (ICIC) was formed to provide an annual forum dedicated to the emerging and challenging topics in artificial intelligence, machine learning, pattern recognition, image processing, bioinformatics, and computational biology. It aims to bring together researchers and practitioners from both academia and industry to share ideas, problems, and solutions related to the multifaceted aspects of intelligent computing. ICIC 2010 held in Changsha, China, August 18-21, 2010, constituted the 6th International Conference on Intelligent Computing. It built upon the success of ICIC 2009, ICIC 2008, ICIC 2007, ICIC 2006, and ICIC 2005, which were held in Ulsan, Korea; Shanghai; Qingdao; Kunming; and Hefei, China, respectively. This year, the conference concentrated mainly on the theories and methodologies as well as the emerging applications of intelligent computing. Its aim was to unify the picture of contemporary intelligent computing techniques as an integral concept that highlights the trends in advanced computational intelligence and bridges theoretical research with applications Therefore the theme for this conference was Advanced Intelligent Computing Technology and Applications Papers focusing on this theme were solicited addressing theories methodologies and applications in science and technology
