The International Distribution of News Jonathan Silberstein-Loeb,2014-02-24 Based on newly available and extensive archival evidence this book traces the history of international news agencies and associations around the world from 1848 to 1947 Jonathan Silberstein Loeb argues that newspaper publishers formed news associations and patronized news agencies to cut the costs of news collection and exclude competitors from gaining access to the news In this way cooperation facilitated the distribution of news The extent to which state regulation permitted cooperation or prohibited exclusivity determined the benefit newspaper publishers derived from these organizations This book revises our understanding of the operation and organization of the Associated Press the BBC the Press Association Reuters and the United Press It also sheds light on the history of competition policy respecting the press intellectual property and the regulation of telecommunications The Historiography of Transition Paolo Pombeni,2015-10-23 Defining a historic transition means understanding how the complex system of intellectual social and material structures formed that determined the transition from a certain universe to a new universe where the old explanations were radically rethought In this book a group of historians with specializations ranging from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries and across political religious and social fields attempt a reinterpretation of modernity as the new Axial Age The Statesman's Year-book ,1928 Power to the People Astrid Kander,Paolo Malanima,Paul Warde,2015-12-29 Power to the People examines the varied but interconnected relationships between energy consumption and economic development in Europe over the last five centuries It describes how the traditional energy economy of medieval and early modern Europe was marked by stable or falling per capita energy consumption and how the First Industrial Revolution in the eighteenth century fueled by coal and steam engines redrew the economic social and geopolitical map of Europe and the world The Second Industrial Revolution continued this energy expansion and social transformation through the use of oil and electricity but after 1970 Europe entered a new stage in which energy consumption has stabilized This book challenges the view that the outsourcing of heavy industry overseas is the cause arguing that a Third Industrial Revolution driven by new information and communication technologies has played a major stabilizing role Power to the People offers new perspectives on the challenges posed today by climate change and peak oil demonstrating that although the path of modern economic development has vastly increased our energy use it has not been a story of ever rising and continuous consumption The book sheds light on the often lengthy and complex changes needed for new energy systems to emerge the role of energy resources in economic growth and the importance of energy efficiency in promoting growth and reducing future energy demand

The Technology Trap Carl Benedikt Frey, 2020-09-22 From the Industrial Revolution to the age of artificial intelligence Carl Benedikt Frey offers a sweeping account of the history of technological progress and how it has radically shifted the distribution of economic and political power among society's members As the author shows the Industrial Revolution created unprecedented wealth and prosperity over the long run but the immediate consequences of mechanization were devastating for large swaths of the population These trends broadly mirror those in our current age of automation But just as the Industrial Revolution eventually brought about extraordinary benefits for society artificial intelligence systems have the potential to do the same Benedikt Frey demonstrates that in the midst of another technological revolution the lessons of the past can help us to more effectively face the present From publisher description

From Oikonomia to Political Economy Germano Maifreda, 2016-04-22 Renaissance Europe witnessed a surge of interest in new scientific ideas and theories Whilst the study of this Scientific Revolution has dramatically shifted our appreciation of many facets of the early modern world remarkably little attention has been paid to its influence upon one key area that of economics Through an interrogation of the relationship between economic and scientific developments in early modern Western Europe this book demonstrates how a new economic epistemology appeared that was to have profound consequences both at the time and for subsequent generations Dr Maifreda argues that the new attention shown by astronomers physicians aristocrats men of letters travellers and merchants for the functioning of economic life and markets laid the ground for a radically new discourse that envisioned economics as an independent field of scientific knowledge By researching the historical context surrounding this new field of knowledge he identifies three key factors that contributed to the cultural construction of economics Firstly Italian Humanism and Renaissance which promoted new subjects methods and quantitative analysis Secondly European overseas expansion which revealed the existence of economic cultures previously unknown to Europeans Thirdly factor identified is the fifteenth and sixteenth century crisis of traditional epistemologies which increasingly valued empirical scientific knowledge over long held beliefs Based on a wide range of published and archival sources the book illuminates new economic sensibilities within a range of established and more novel scientific disciplines including astronomy physics ethnography geology and chemistry alchemy By tracing these developments within the wider social and cultural fields of everyday commercial life the study offers a fascinating insight into the relationship between economic knowledge and science during the early modern period
