literature's engagement with the gothic by analysing the practices of borrowing and adaptation Katherine Bowers shows how these practices shaped literary realism from its romantic beginnings through the big novels of the 1860s and 1870s to its transformation during the modernist period Bowers traces the development of gothic realism with an emphasis on the affective power of fear She then investigates the hybrid genre's function in a series of case studies focused on literary texts that address social and political issues such as urban life the woman question revolutionary terrorism and the decline of the family By mapping the myriad ways political and cultural anxiety take shape via the gothic mode in the age of realism Writing Fear challenges the conventional literary history of nineteenth century Russia
